Hardin Soil District Award Winner

The Hardin Soil Conservation District is one of two soil conservation districts in Iowa that have been selected as winning districts in the 1969 soil conservation award program of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.

Trips to the Goodyear Farms, Litchfield Park, Ariz., in December have been awarded to Milton R. Jordening, Eldora area farmer, as outstanding farmer cooperater, and to Caleb Knutson, Radcliffe, as a member of the district's board of commissioners.

The other award winning conservation district was Page.

Jordening farms approximately 700 acres east of Eldora and is active in the Pine Lake Watershed area. In 1968, he was named the Sweepstakes winner in the Outstanding Conservation Farmer Contest sponsored by the Des Moines Register and Tribune for the state.

Knutson was elected to the District's commissioners this past spring. The Radcliffe area farmer had served as assistant commissioner for two years prior to that. Other commissioners are Kermit Whitehead of New Providence and Carroll Hobson of Eldora. Assistant commissioners are Paul Primus of Steamboat Rock and Ted Cutler of New Providence.
