Hardin Soil District Wins Firm's Award

DES MOINES — Two Iowa soil and water conservation districts are area winners of the annual Goodyear Soil Conservation Awards

Hardin District in Northern Iowa and Page District in Southern Iowa were selected on the basis of district planning, organization and accomplishments during the year. State agricultural and conservation leaders constituted the judging committee.

Two representatives from each winning district will be guests of The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company on a four-day visit in December to The Wigwam resort and Goodyear Farms, Litchfield Park, Ariz.

From Hardin District they will be Milton R. Jordening, Eldora, outstanding farmer-cooperator of the year, and Caleb Knutson, Radcliffe, member of the governing board.

The men, along with 100 other representatives of the winning districts throughout the nation, will participate in a vacation-study program at the 10,000-acre desert farm west of Phoenix.

Tama Soil and Water Conservation District placed second in Northern Iowa; Charles Balloun, Toledo, was named the district's outstanding farmer-cooperator.
