Crownvetch Growers Meet Here Wed.

The Crownvetch Growers Association will hold its annual meeting Wednesday, Jan. 14, from 10 a.m. to noon in the Hardin Soil Conservation District Office, located beneath the Post Office Building at Eldora. Interested persons are encouraged to attend.

John Maddy, Conservation Agronomist, will conduct an informal discussion on establishing and harvesting problems. There are presently ten crownvetch growers in Hardin county. The first crownvetch seedings were started in 1966. There are approximately seventy acres in the county now.
