

Plan Meeting For Persons Living In Watershed Area

Conservation Work
To Be Discussed
Here On Tuesday

A special meeting in connection with forest tree planting, Christmas tree production, wildlife areas and conservation will be held Tuesday night, March 1, in the basement wing of the Hardin County Youth Building, it was announced this week by local conservation officials.

The meeting, to which all persons living around the Pine Lake watershed area and other interested parties in Hardin and Grundy counties have been invited, will begin at 7:45 p. m.

Robert Davidson, forestry specialist, and Robert Mooreman, wildlife management specialist, both of Iowa State University, have been invited to attend the meeting and speak to the group on "conservation related to forest plantings and wildlife management".