

Marvin Smart, Warren County Extension Director, has an anniversary this week. As of September 1, 1976, Marvin has been the Extension Director for 20 years beginning on September 1, 1956.

Marvin has also been active in many areas in the county including church activities. He was United Nations Day Chairman for Warren County in 1970 and was on the Community Action Board. He is presently serving on the Rural Development Committee; working with the Bi-Centennial Committee; and the Council of Civic Agencies. He helped set up the Warren County Conservation Board and is past President of the Noon Lions club.

Marvin has been recognized for his outstanding work by receiving the Iowa State University Alumni Award and the Distinguished Service Award for County Extension Directors.
