

Regional Queen

Kay Clyman (left) of rural Bloomfield, shown here as she received the regional crown in a Queen of Conservation contest at Fairfield, advances to state competition Sept. 12 in Atlantic. Kay, 16-year-old daughter of the Neal Clymans, was crowned at Fairfield by Anne Hawley of West Liberty, who has the title of Iowa's Favorite Farmer's Daughter. Kay went to the regional contest after winning the county competition held during the Davis County Old Soldiers and Settlers Reunion.
