New Hartford Man Victim of One-Car Crash

*Killed Aug. 28
David Aug 31, 1971*

(Courier News Bureau)

CEDAR FALLS — A New Hartford man who had been wounded twice in action in South Vietnam was killed early yesterday in a one-car accident at the west edge of Cedar Falls.

Killed was Dewey Ronald Johnson, 23, of Rt. 1, New Hartford. He died of head injuries.

Injured in the crash was Keith Eugene Smith, 21, of 707 Riehl St., Waterloo, who was listed in fair condition at Sartori Memorial Hospital yesterday with back injuries and multiple cuts and bruises.

High Speed

Police said the car in which the two men were riding was traveling east on Hwy. 20 or West First Street at a high rate of speed when the car went out of control on a curve about 1,000 feet west of the intersection with Hudson Road at 1:30 a.m.

The car traveled across the roadway into the left hand ditch, traveled 300 feet in the ditch, rolled over several times, struck an embankment, and wound up back on the road, facing west, police said.

Both men were thrown from the vehicle and police said they did not know which of them was driving. The car was a total loss. Police are continuing their investigation.

Bronze Star

Johnson was released from the service in May, 1970. During his service in South Vietnam he had been wounded twice and was awarded the Bronze Star.

He was employed at the Pillsbury Co. in Waterloo.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Johnson, Jr.; two sisters, Shirley Johnson of Redwood City, Calif., and Teresa Johnson, at home; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Card of Parkersburg and Mrs. Emma Johnson, also of Parkersburg.

Services are pending at the Dahl-Van Hove-Schoof Funeral Home.

IN MEMORY OF: DEWEY R. JOHNSON

We of The Pillsbury Co., Waterloo, Io wish to take this time to offer sympathy and condolences to the reaved family of Dewey R. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Al Johnson and family of New Hartford, Iowa.

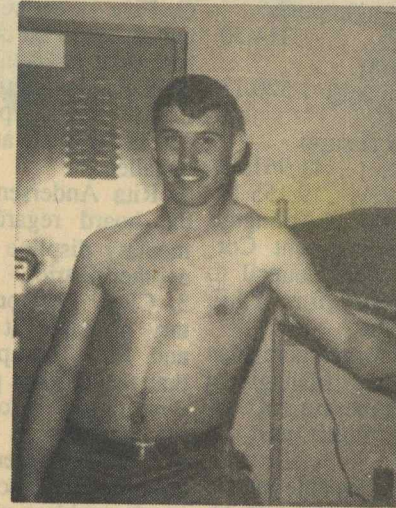

Dewey was an employee of The Pillsbury Company for approximately six months during which time he showed an exceptionally high attitude of responsibility toward his work. Unlike a lot of young people we hire nowadays he never complained about his job, even when tasks were difficult. When he received his check he knew he had earned it and was proud of it. He surely must have had days like the rest of us where things never went right, but if he never let it show.

I can not recall a single instance where he belittled someone or was cruel to those less fortunate than himself. More important he was human — he knew and felt the needs of others and gladly lent a helping hand to anyone who needed it.

We were long time filling the week space in our work force between labor and management, and I'm sure much time will pass before we find anyone who can fill this position again as completely as Dewey did. Dewey was, I believe, just finding himself after spending two years in Vietnam, and as I gained experience would have gone far in the world of business simply because of his attitude. He was proud of himself, his family, his country and his work. We know his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Al Johnson, were very proud of their son and we here at The Pillsbury Company are proud of the opportunity to have known him and to have worked with him, even for this short while.

Loving Memory Of Dewey Johnson - Aug. 28, 1971

He looked around his garden and saw an empty space.
He looked down here and saw your very handsome face.
He put his arms around you and lifted you to nest.
His garden must be beautiful because he only picks the best.
A million times we've missed you, a million times we've cried.
If love could have saved you, you never would have died.
In life we loved you dearly. In death we love you still.
In our hearts you hold a place no one will every fill.
It broke our hearts to lose you, but you did not go alone.
For part of us went with you the day God took you home.

We will all be joined together again in heaven.

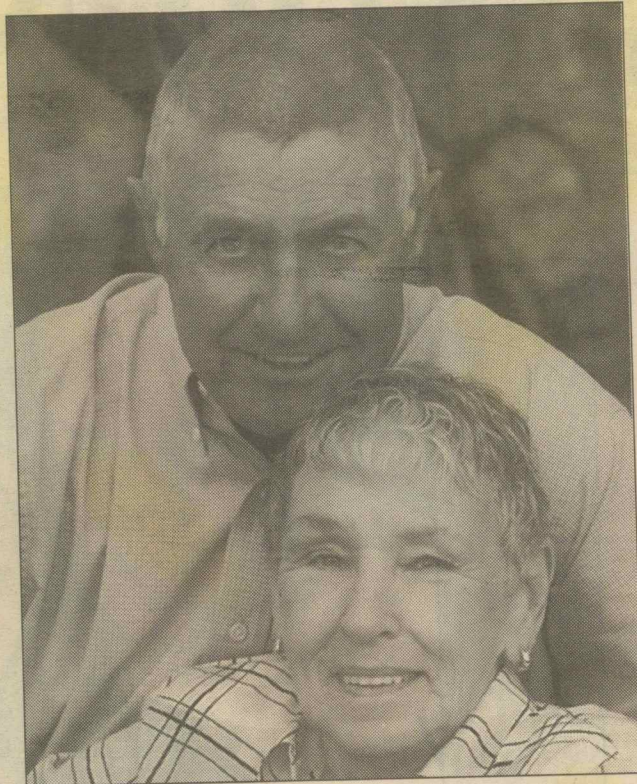

We Love You!

Dear friend(s):

I am currently researching my family history and am looking for information on my grandfather. I hope that you may be able to assist me.

According to family stories, my grandfather, Peter JOHNSON (born 30 Mar 1862, Denmark) and his two brothers immigrated to the US when Peter was a young boy of 14-17 years old, about 1876-79. He eventually settled for a time in Rienbeck, Grundy Co. where he married Nielsene Christensen, also of Denmark. About 1906, they moved to Saskatchewan, Canada, where they remained until he died.

In looking through some family records, I came across the names and addresses of some people who are evidently either his brothers, their wives, or their children. Two of these people had addresses in New Hartford, Iowa.

On the Internet I was able to find your name(s) listed as having the surname JOHNSON and living in New Hartford. It may be a long shot, but I am hoping that you may be related in some way and may have more information. Below is a list of the people whose names I found.

Olive Johnson, New Hartford, Iowa

His children:

Myrtle & Henry Akkerman
Wisconsin Rapids, Wisconsin

Hayes H. Johnson

It is possible that some of these people are now deceased, but I would appreciate it if you have any connection to any of these people, or if you have any information that might be useful, that you might contact me. I would be happy to share any information that I have.

Sincerely,

Judi Lee

The bride's gown, which was fashioned of Chantilly lace over satin, was designed with a lace bodice with V-neck and long sleeves ending in points at the wrists. The skirt extended into a junior train.

The bridesmaids, Miss Mary Avery and Miss Lorraine Johnson of New Hartford, the groom's sister, were identically attired in pink and green, respectively. All three attendants carried modified colonial bouquets of pink glame-las.

A pink gown made similar to those worn by the matron of honor and bridesmaids was worn by the flower girl, Faith Ann Bramblett, cousin of the groom. She also wore a pink taffeta cap and she carried a white basket of rose petals.

Mrs. Yarcho chose a powder blue lace dress, pink accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses for her daughter's wedding. The groom's mother wore a navy sheer with white accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

New Hartford

HONORED

Dr. Lorraine Johnson Hoffman, a former resident of New Hartford and a 1960 graduate of New Hartford High School, was honored on June 11, 1994 by Iowa State University and the ISU Alumni Association. She received the Faculty Citation Award which recognizes long, outstanding and inspiring service on the Iowa State University faculty.

Dr. Hoffman is professor of Microbiology, Immunology, and Preventative Medicine in the College of Veterinary Medicine where she has served as section leader in bacteriology at the Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory for the past 19 years. She received her B.S. degree from Wartburg College and her M.S. and Ph.D. from Iowa State University.

While her primary responsibility is in diagnostic bacteriology, Hoffman is an active researcher and a valued contributor to undergraduate and graduate teaching in microbiology. She is also a highly respected mentor and advisor to many veterinary students. Her work at ISU's Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory provides a crucial service to veterinarians and livestock producers in Iowa and throughout the Midwest. Results from the laboratory must be accurate and timely to provide information to control disease outbreaks which may be economically devastating. Her leadership in diagnostic microbiology has been instrumental in shaping and maintaining the laboratory's strong national and international reputation in swine diagnostics.

Dr. Hoffman resides with her husband Peter, professor of Animal Science at ISU, and their two teenage daughters, Kourtney and Royelle, on a farm near Ames. She is the daughter of the late John and Grace Johnson, life long residents of New Hartford.

Outstanding Achievement

Lorraine Hoffman has accumulated an extensive cadre of accomplishments in diagnostic professional practice, continuing education, teaching, student advising, and research. Through all of these activities she has continued to be recognized not only for her professional and scientific expertise, but for her dedication to service and as a talented listener and adviser to colleagues, clients and students.

Her principal responsibility is managing one of the most active veterinary diagnostic bacteriology laboratories in the nation. Dr. Hoffman has managed this responsibility while maintaining an active research and advising role for the college, as well as applying her knowledge at a practical level in a family swine herd and advising hundreds of veterinarians each year about diagnosis and control of infectious diseases. In addition, she has participated in more than 100 scholarly publications and presentations, numerous continuing education and Extension presentations, and spent many hours providing tailored reports or searches of the laboratory database in response to specific questions.

Dr. Lorraine (Johnson) Hoffman, professor of Veterinary Diagnostic and Production Animal Medicine, retired from the Iowa State University College of Veterinary Medicine on April 1, 2009, after 34 years of service. Dr. Hoffman was Director of Operations of the Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory from April 1, 2006 until February 1, 2009. This appointment followed 31 years as Bacteriology Section Leader in the laboratory.

Dr. Hoffman's career was largely devoted to professional practice with specific focus on providing credible and timely diagnostic service to the veterinarians of Iowa and nationwide, developing state-of-the-art classical and molecular test protocols for diagnosing livestock diseases, and conducting infectious disease research that benefited the production animal industries of the state and nation. Another commitment of major proportion was her involvement in mentoring and training veterinary, graduate and undergraduate students for successful careers and lives.

She is an honorary member of the American College of Veterinary Microbiologists and is a member of many national organizations and societies. She has received several awards acknowledging her career accomplishments, the most recent in 2006 when she received the William P. Switzer Award for significant contributions to society and the profession of Veterinary Medicine. Dr. Hoffman will continue to serve on the Executive Board of the American Association of Laboratory Diagnosticians and will maintain her dedication and involvement with Iowa State University and the College of Veterinary Medicine as Emeritus Professor.

Dr. Hoffman graduated from New Hartford High School in 1960, received her BS degree in biology from Wartburg College in 1964, and MS (1968) and PhD (1974) degrees in bacteriology from Iowa State University.

Lorraine is the daughter of the late Grace and John Johnson, long-time residents of New Hartford.

The New Hartford United Methodist church was the setting for the 4 o'clock wedding of Miss Lorraine Carolyn Johnson to Dr. M. Peter Hoffman. Officiating at the ceremony was Rev. Herbert C. Shaffer.

As her matron of honor the bride chose Mrs. Royce Kreul of Dewitt, a friend and former college associate.

Attending the groom as best man was Mr. Frederic Hoffman of Pennsylvania, a brother of the groom.

Flower girls, cousins of the bride, were Miss Brenda Johnson and Miss Lisa Johnson of Waterloo. Ringbearers were Master Todd Johnson and Master Tyler Johnson, nephews of the bride.

Ushering the guests were Mr. Cedric Matsushima of Hawaii, Mr. Arlington Nagle of Pennsylvania and Mr. Allen Christian of Ames, all friends of the groom.

Nephews of the bride, Mr. Michael Johnson and Mr. Randy Johnson were candlelighters.

The organist was Miss Mary Lee Dix, a friend of the bride. Vocalists were Mr. Clark Mowry, a friend of the groom and Master Timothy Johnson, nephew of the bride.

Host and hostesses at the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Johnson, brothers and sister-in-law of the bride.

The bride approached the altar on the arm of her father, wearing a white empire style gown of peau de soie trimmed in heavy lace with a detachable train. The dress was fashioned by Lucille Rouse of Ames, a personal friend of the bride. Her mantilla was shoulder length. Around her neck she wore a gold watch on a wrist length chain. The watch belonged to her grandmother and dates back to 1899.

After the double ring ceremony Dr. and Mrs. Hoffman mingled with guests who came from as far away as Texas. Being originally from Pennsylvania, the groom had many relatives and friends from this state present.

Dr. Hoffman is assistant professor of animal science at Iowa State University. Mrs. Hoffman, who is pursuing her Ph. D, is employed as bacteriologist at the Iowa State Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory.

After honeymooning in Colorado the couple will reside in Ames.

Family—Husband—Pete—Married 40 years

Daughter—Kourtney Katherine (32) will be married in September to Doug Sellers. (Doug is father of Luke (5).) They all reside in Chicago.

Daughter—Royelle Marka (30) is married to Joseph Mohorovic. They have twin daughters ,Gigi and Lucy, who were 2 in April. They reside in Glen Ellyn, Illinois, a western suburb.

Career/Jobs—Lorraine is Professor and Director Emeritus in the College of Veterinary Medicine at Iowa Stat University.

My focus during the 34 of employment at ISU consisted of being Section Leader of Bacteriology in the Veterinary Diagnostic Lab within the Dept. of Veterinary Diagnostic and Production Animal Medicine (31) and Laboratory Director during the final 3 years of my tenure at ISU. I worked primarily on the microbiological aspects of difficult investigational cases submitted to the lab by veterinarians in Iowa and throughout the Midwest, but also spent considerable time teaching and conducting research, as well as advising and mentoring of students at all levels of professional and graduate training. Although I transitioned out of my faculty position on April 1, 2009, I have an office at the Veterinary College and continue to serve on graduate committees, mentor young faculty and students, and support the college and university in many other capacities.

Pete, who has been on the Animal Science faculty for 40 years, continues to teach undergraduate and graduate students, conduct beef cattle research with the assistance of several graduate students, and advise 50-60 undergraduate students.

Together we own Phenotypic Acres, a purebred swine operation south of Ames. We have resided on the farm 37 years, and continue to sell seedstock throughout the U.S. and in several foreign countries.

Activities/Hobbies—I love family time and wish to be engaged with our daughters and granddaughters (and new grandson by marriage in the fall) as much as possible. Church and community service fill a major niche in my everyday life as well as traveling around the state and country with Pete to visit hog clients and deliver animals. We enjoy Cyclone athletics...one of our favorite relaxation endeavors (even when they lose). I enjoy visiting and supporting extended family members in every way possible. Additional personal time is spent reading, writing family and ISU VDL histories, and hopefully resuming my gold game. I still shoot baskets whenever someone wishes to take me on in a free throw contest.

Retirement/ Bucket List—Just to grow in my faith, spend productive and fun time with family, and visit as many of my old and new friends as possible....and give back whatever I can to make the world a better place before I leave it for my spiritual ride with God.

About growing up in New Hartford and being in the class of 1960?

Growing up in a small community was immensely important: my parents showed me the importance of making others feel special, treating everyone with respect and understanding, placing the needs of others before my own, and working tirelessly to bring quality service to clients.....I would not have been as successful professionally or personally without their helping hands. The community was a caring and loving place where the warmth of people was expressed each day, especially noted in the hardware store where I spent countless hours learning about client service in the true sense with no strings attached. The class of '60 influenced my life because I knew they were behind me 100%....Mr. Barnholdt did a Sociology questionnaire when we were seniors that opened my eyes to my classmates view of me....I took lessons from that and worked on positive changes during my college years, so I am thankful for those insights. The opportunity to interact with quality people throughout 13 years of class work at NH and maintain many of the friendships through a lifetime is an amazing gift in my eyes. I feel blessed to have all of you in my life and to a greater extent in the past year or so... what a joy to look forward to more years with the connectivity of old friends who have all gotten better with age and experiences.

Favorite Teacher—Henry Van Eschen because he believed in the goodness of youth, the well-being of all his students, the value of education, and shaping us to become useful, successful, happy and productive citizens for the rest of our lives.

Memories at School--

Being on a great girl's BB team, creating friendships that I have maintained throughout life, the fun and carefree youth that was and remains a treasure.

Military rites conducted in Don's honor
by American Legion Post 660

Immediately following the service at the cemetery, Betty's family invites you to join them in a time of lunch and fellowship at the church.

On April 4, 2010, Elizabeth "Betty" Paterson Johnson, 76, longtime New Hartford resident, passed into eternal life with her son, sister-in-law and several caregivers by her side at Waterford Assisted Living residence in Ames, IA where she had resided since June, 2009. Betty's final battle with respiratory disease and a recently diagnosed cancer was courageous, but she articulated her readiness to join Don in their heavenly home as her physical, mental and emotional spirit deteriorated rapidly in recent days.

Betty was born on January 19, 1934 in Broomhouse, Scotland to William and Mary (Burt) Paterson. During Betty's youth, her parents moved the family to Paisley, Scotland where they owned and operated a grocery store. Betty graduated from Paisley High School in 1952 and shortly thereafter became employed as a secretary. She met Donald Johnson of New Hartford, IA while he was stationed at Prestwick Air Base in Ayrshire, Scotland during the Korean Conflict. In 1955, Don returned to his home community of New Hartford to work in the family hardware business, but he was determined that he and Betty would be reunited and start a life together. In 1957, Betty and her mother immigrated to Toronto, Canada where Betty was employed by an insurance company. Donald and Betty continued their long distance romance for several more years until Betty moved to Iowa following her mother's death. They were married on November 30, 1962 in New Hartford and were blessed with a son, Tyler Stuart, on October 4, 1964. Betty was a housewife during their 47 years of marriage and supported Don in the hardware business. A proud moment for Betty was when she received her U. S. citizenship in 1978.

Betty was a longtime member of the New Hartford Methodist Church where she sang in the choir for many years and assisted with other volunteer duties. Betty had numerous hobbies including knitting and crocheting, which she learned from her mother, reading Scottish literature, collecting clocks and watches, and traveling to her beloved Scotland to visit family and friends which she did numerous times during her lifetime. She took great pride in decorating their home for each holiday season, and had a knack for bargain hunting which often resulted in the purchase of a fashionable piece of clothing for a fraction of the original price. Betty had a flair for a good argument and a wry sense of humor that reflected her Scottish culture.

Betty is survived by her son Tyler and sister-in-law, Lorraine (Peter) Hoffman, all of Ames; sisters-in-law Sarah (John) McEnaney of New Hartford and Jean Paterson of Paisley, Scotland; several nieces and nephews and great nieces and nephews. She also wished to acknowledge her loyal friends in the New Hartford community, as well as those she acquired since moving to Ames, especially the caring staff of Waterford Assisted Living.

Betty was preceded in death by her loving husband Donald who died on January 7, 2010, her parents, brothers George and William, her mother and father-in-law, Grace and John Johnson, brother-in-law, Herbert Johnson and nephew, Todd Johnson.

Memorials should be directed to Tyler Johnson at 55417 265th St. Ames, IA 50010 so that he can fulfill his parent's wishes to memorialize them with a gift to the New Hartford Methodist Church which they attended during their married life.

CEDAR FALLS—Miss Sarah Lee Yarcho, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Yarcho, 2209 Olive St., was married Tuesday evening at 7:30 at First Methodist Church.

She became the bride of Pvt. Herbert LeRoy Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson Jr. of New Hartford, in a ceremony performed by Dr. H. D. Temple.

Wedding Music

Music during the wedding was by Mrs. Myron Russell, organist, and Miss Sheila Brockway of Shell Rock, cousin of the bride, and John Anderson, vocalists.

The bride's gown, which was fashioned of Chantilly lace over satin, was designed with a lace bodice with V-neck and long sleeves ending in points at the wrists. The skirt extended into a junior train.

Her fingertip nylon net veil was caught to a crown of lace and satin in a lattice work design. A modified colonial arrangement of pink Pinocchio roses was her bouquet.

Mrs. John M. Miller of Aplington, as matron of honor, was attired in a gown of nylon net over satin with embroidered net bodice and skirt panels. Matching mitts and cap completed her attire.

The bridesmaids, Miss Mary Avery and Miss Lorraine Johnson of New Hartford, the groom's sister, were identically attired in pink and green, respectively. All three attendants carried modified colonial bouquets of pink glame-lia.

A pink gown made similar to those worn by the matron of honor and bridesmaids was worn by the flower girl, Faith Ann Bramblett, cousin of the groom. She also wore a pink taffeta cap and she carried a white basket of rose petals.

Mrs. Yarcho chose a powder blue lace dress, pink accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses for her daughter's wedding. The groom's mother wore a navy sheer with white accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

Nephew's Attendant

Earl Johnson acted as his nephew's best man and Jack Hovelson and George Mulder were groomsmen. Ushers were Robert Stevens of New Hartford and Ernest Doden.

A reception for 300 guests occurred in the church parlors after the wedding. The hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Elza Brockwell of Shell Rock, were assisted by the Misses Jean and Ann Christiansen, Miss Shirley Otto, Mrs. Marvin Klepfer, Mrs. Gene Holdiman, Mrs. Richard Dugstad, Mrs. Richard Mehmen, Miss Ruth Mehmen and Mrs. Merle Picht.

Firefighters are digging through the rubble today in hopes of finding the cause of an explosion and fire that claimed the life of one man on Monday.

Todd Johnson, 40, of rural New Hartford was severely burned in the explosion, which rocked the town and leveled Todd's Repair Shop on Main Street. The incident happened at about 5 p.m. Monday.

Johnson was transported to Sartori Hospital in Cedar Falls and later flown to University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics where he died Monday evening.

Wayne Thoren lives across the street from the business and heard the explosion. The force of the blast shook Thoren's home so much he believed he had lost his roof.

To his horror, he looked out the kitchen window and saw a man on fire.

"I never want to do that again," a shaken Thoren said Monday.

Curt Smith, who was in the apartment building behind the home, also heard the blast.

"I ran over and saw the flames," Smith said.

Black smoke poured from the free-standing shop. Johnson was able to tell bystanders no one else was in the building. In fact, Ron Dietrick, a part-time employee, had left an hour earlier to help gather some cattle that had gotten loose.

Dietrick returned to New Hartford after hearing of the explosion. He said Johnson had been replacing a ball joint on a vehicle and may have been cleaning up for the day when the explosion occurred.

Butler County Sheriff Tim Junker was sure there had been an explosion, but the cause was unknown.

Firefighters knocked down portions of the building that survived the blast while extinguishing the blaze. MidAmerican Energy officials were unable to turn off the natural gas at the valve, said Shane Ballhagen, assistant fire chief. Crews had to dig through burning debris to reach the pipe and seal it.

During the operation, four homes and eight apartments were evacuated as a precaution.

Crews worked until 8:30 p.m. to stop the leak. Firefighters official left the scene about 10 p.m. Monday.

The Iowa State Fire Marshal was on the scene this morning looking for evidence and answers.

"There are a lot of things in the shop that could be the cause," said Gordon Ballhagen, a New Hartford firefighter.

NEW HARTFORD

A man killed in an explosion Monday may have been welding on or near a waste oil barrel.

Todd Johnson, 40, was working alone in the shop. He died from injuries he received in the explosion and resulting fire.

Shane Ballhagen, the New Hartford assistant fire chief, said Tuesday an employee at Todd's Repair shop had broken a pipe that funneled oil into the tank last week and Johnson was most likely trying to repair it.

After spending Tuesday digging through rubble, firefighters found welding equipment near the barrel. The State Fire Marshal believes Johnson was preparing to weld a cap on the tank, according to Ballhagen.

"That was the explosion everyone heard," Ballhagen said.

Johnson had pulled a water hose over to the area in case of a spot fire, he said. His welding safety equipment was also near the site.

When the barrel exploded, burning oil was thrown across the shop.

Neighbor Wayne Thoren heard the explosion and saw Johnson running out of the building, his clothes on fire.

"I didn't know what to do right quick, so I just grabbed the comforter off the bed," he said. "My brother-in-law, Verne Dennis, grabbed him and threw him on the ground. I threw the blanket on him."

He said everything else was a blur. Others called the fire department.

"I just stayed right there with him. I tried to comfort him as best I possibly could. I just waited," he said. "It seemed like an eternity."

Johnson was sent to Sartori Hospital in Cedar Falls and airlifted to a burn unit at the University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics in Iowa City. He died late Monday.

Friends and family have placed flowers and candles near the shop, Thoren said.

Johnson's stepfather, John McEnaney, said he'd been in business about 10 years at two different shops in New Hartford.

"He was there to help anybody he could whenever he could," he said. "Never took advantage of anybody."

"He was a great family man. Everybody knew him. He didn't have an enemy in the world," McEnaney added. "He's going to be greatly missed by all."

NEW HARTFORD

The community of New Hartford has rolled up its sleeves and gotten to work.

The day after a devastating explosion that killed the owner of Todd's Repair Shop on Aug. 11, more than 100 residents turned out to help clean up the site on Main Street.

Another 40 or so workers from throughout the area — construction workers, electricians and others who knew Todd Johnson or knew people who knew him — converged on the city Wednesday night to renovate a small, yellow building across the street from Todd's Repair. The building will become the temporary home for Todd's Repair until the new business can be built on its old site or elsewhere, said resident Christine Schipper, who is helping her husband, Brad, with the renovation.

And tonight, a benefit dinner to help with costs of rebuilding Todd's Repair will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. at Luney Tunes Saloon in New Hartford.

Owner Mark Lynch, who also is a volunteer firefighter in New Hartford, said the dinner will consist of beef and noodles. Donations will be taken.

He said the benefit is a community-sponsored event, with many area residents expected to attend.

Johnson, 40, was working alone in Todd's Repair Shop when it exploded. He died from injuries he received in the explosion and resulting fire. Fire officials said it was likely the fire started when Johnson was welding a pipe that had broken in the shop.

Schipper said Johnson had just bought the property across the street from his shop. It's the site of the temporary home of the repair shop. Insurance is expected to cover the tools lost during the explosion, but volunteers will be getting the business up and running for now.

Wayne Moody, Johnson's lone full-time employee, will run the shop.

"It's the community coming together," Schipper said.

The Chain Has Been Broken.....

A month ago, August 11, we lost part of our chain gang at Dike-New Hartford. Todd Allen Johnson, 40, lived in the middle of Dike and Cedar Falls.

Randy Johnson, brother to Todd, said, I am going to miss him lighting up the situation in a conversation.

Todd worked in New Hartford at Todd's Repair. August 11, 2003, was just another day at work, that is what we all thought at least. Until on the news at 5:20, there was breaking news that an explosion in New Hartford at Todd's Repair just occurred. It stunned everyone when it happened.

Randy said, It caught me off guard when it happened because I wouldn't imagine it would happen to my brother.

Randy had a shop behind Todd's Repair called Johnson's small engine repair.

Randy said, The one thing I am going to miss is going and working with him everyday.

Todd was a big athletic supporter; to every athlete. He was at many of the games. He was a part of the chain gang in football. He even named his wrecker at the shop Wolverine Towing.

Jordan Bakker, a senior player football said, He was such a big athletic supporter he was there for everyone not just for a few. He was at the games for everyone.

Many people say that you could hear the Johnson guys cheering at the games.

Bakker said, I think it is different without him here because you just knew he was there cheering, you could definitely know when Todd was there.

It is a big loss for everyone, he was such a great person inside and out.

Randy said, He was a very loyal person to everyone.

If you needed something done with your car, you could go to Todd, and he would fix it for you.

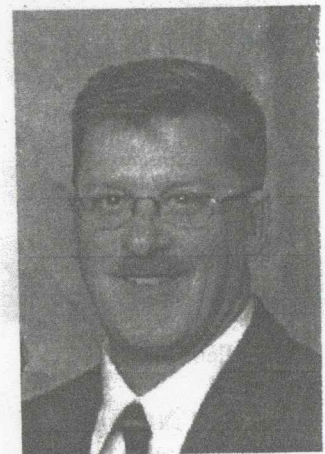

Courtney Wienkes, a senior at Dike-New Hartford who took her car to Todd one time, said, O I needed my oil changed, so I went to him, and he stopped what he was doing he got right to my car; and he told me I could sit in his office while he was changing my oil.

Todd was a totally awesome person to everyone. He wouldn't single anyone out. If you needed someone to talk to he was there.

Randy said, If you were good to him; he was going to be good right back to you.

Many people said, that if you needed something done or help with something, Todd was right there helping. He wouldn't be afraid to tell you if he needed help with something. He wasn't just a good friend. He was an awesome dad, husband, uncle, and son. He was such a awesome family member.

Jessica Johnson, a niece of Todd said, He was such an awesome uncle; I miss him a lot.

Many helpful hands have put many hours and devoted time in to the new shop. It will be up and running on Monday, September 22, 2003.

From the football players to friends and family, Todd will be missed. He sure will never be forgotten.

My Uncle Todd

My Uncle Todd was the greatest of Men
he never knew when to just say when not to the friend who just needed help
fixing a car or buying a truck

My Uncle Todd always had a smile on his face especially when Grandma Sarah stood up to give grace.
He was always the liveliest one of the bunch
but that's why we all miss him so much.

So for you, Uncle Todd, I made a great big place
deep in my heart for your smiling face.

Say hi to Herbert, I hope he's shaking your hand telling you your family is doing the best they can.

I am writing this poem reaching into the dark,
I just hope it touches every inch of your heart.

Dustin Johnson, 8-15-03

Greatly missed by all his family and friends.

CF man fights back against arterial disease

By EMILY CHRISTENSEN
Courier Staff Writer

CEDAR FALLS — The symptoms first surfaced sometime during 2000.

T.J. Johnson, 50, went to the doctor complaining of excruciating foot pain. It was that same year that Johnson suffered his first stroke.

At the time, doctors found no underlying medical reason for either. They ran numerous tests, but nothing jumped out. The doctors treated his symptoms and helped him recover from the stroke, but it wasn't until 2005, when doctors had to amputate Johnson's foot, that he was finally diagnosed with peripheral artery disease.

"My foot was in tremendous pain, I had been begging them to take it off," Johnson said. "I could see the black spots and streaks. There was no circulation in my foot."

Peripheral artery disease occurs when plaque builds up on the walls of the arteries that carry blood from the heart to the head, internal organs and limbs. It most commonly affects blood flow to the legs, which can cause pain and numbness. In severe cases, like Johnson's, the blocked blood flow can cause tissue death and lead to amputation.

About 12 million Americans are affected by peripheral artery disease, but only about one-fourth of the cases are diagnosed. Of those, only half are treated. Storey said the biggest concern is that symptoms mimic other problems and therefore patients blow it off or doctors treat it as something else.

The disease is incurable, but can be treated and managed through lifestyle changes, medications and surgery. After nearly 20 years of fighting the addiction, Johnson smoked his last cigarette Feb. 21, 2005. He began watching what he ate and managing his high blood pressure with medication. But by then it was already too late for his right foot. Doctors amputated that July 3, 2005. Six months later Johnson was back at the hospital where doctors took his right leg above the knee.

"I still think the DOT was in on this. They wanted doctors to cut off my lead foot," Johnson joked.

Through it all Johnson has been able to keep his sense of humor, said Tim Storey, a registered nurse assigned to Johnson through Allen Home Health.

"There are days we laugh the whole time I am here," Storey said. "But there are other days we talk about God and religion and death. T.J. has been good at handling the physical symptoms, but not knowing where it is going, it sometimes gets him down."

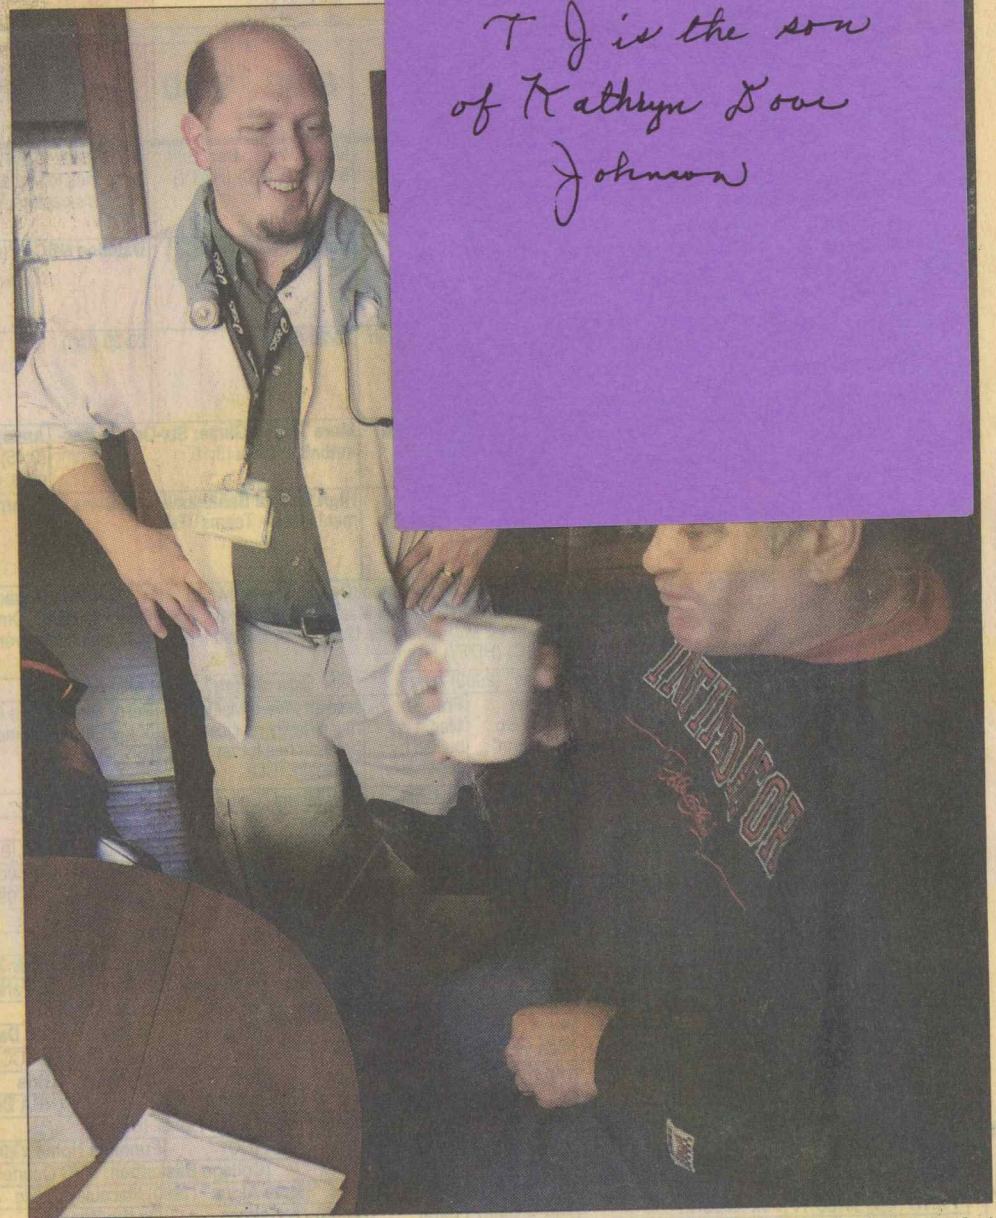

And those days are the hardest for Johnson and his wife, Melinda. Doctors can't tell them what to expect next. Johnson is sure he eventually will lose his left foot, too. He already feels the burning in his toes that served as a warning sign in his right foot.

The disease also has cost him his gallbladder and one kidney.

In the meantime, Johnson hopes sharing his story will convince others to learn the warning signs and ask their doctors to test for peripheral artery disease.

"The test is very simple. There is no pain involved. It's just like a blood pressure cuff attached around your arms and legs," Johnson said. "If I would have known then what I know now, I would have definitely asked for it."

Dallas Amos Jones.

Dallas Amos Jones, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jones, was born April 22, 1893, near New Hartford, Iowa, and passed away October 10, 1918, at the age of 22 years, 5 months and 18 days.

"Deceased grew to noble manhood in this vicinity. During the revival meetings conducted by Knowles and Dirks he accepted Christ as his savior and united with the Methodist church at this place under the pastorate of Rev. Faris.

On May 23, 1917 he was united in marriage to Miss Jessie Pauline Page of Waynesville, Illinois.

Dallas was of a quiet and unassuming manner, with a genial and home loving disposition, always kind and considerate of others. To know him better, was to love and esteem him more.

The funeral services were conducted at the home of his parents, with whom he was engaged in cooperative farming and where his presence will be sadly missed. Pastor Shepple spoke words of comfort from the 11th chapter of St. John and the songs Asleep in Jesus, Safe in the Arms of Jesus, There'll Be No Dark Valley, also We Are Going Down the Valley, were sung by Mr. and Mrs. C. Sprague, Edgar Yokom and Miss Lois May.

Many and beautiful were the floral tributes which covered the casket and strewn about the grave where all that was mortal was gently laid to rest.

Besides the bereaved wife and parents, he leaves three brothers and one sister, together with numerous other relatives and a host of friends to mourn his loss.

The golden gates were open wide, & gentle voice said "come". And angels from the other side Welcomed our loved one home.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to our many friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us by word and deed in the sickness and death of our loved one, and also for the many beautiful flowers. May you all find as kind friends in your hour of need is our prayer.—Mrs. Dallas Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jones and Family.

Helen (Juhl) remembers Helen and her sisters and some of her cousins huddled on the bed discussing what a kind, fine man Uncle Nick (Dockwell) was.

They then decided that the 1st one to have a baby boy would name it after Uncle Nick.

Emma married Henry Knock, but for some reason they decided not to name the boy Nick Knock.

I think they missed an opportunity of a life time.

Ambassador is on hand as museum opens its door

By TOM CARNEY

REGISTER STAFF WRITER

Elk Horn, Ia. — If you picked up a blindfolded Holger Hedelund Poulsen in a helicopter from his farm in Denmark and deposited him in front of the new Danish Immigrant Museum here, he might assume he's still in his homeland.

The setting in the rolling hills near this Shelby County town is identical to that of his own home, Poulsen said. He would be confused about the museum building itself only because of its size.

It looks like buildings near his house except it's many times larger. What would give away that this is not Denmark, he said, is the sprouting corn in the surrounding fields. In Denmark, which is about a third the size of Iowa, the fields would be blanketed with wheat.

Agricultural Tour

Poulsen would notice that because he's among a growing number of Danish farmers who produce corn. He and a busload of corn-growing Danish farmers, on an agricultural tour of the upper Midwest, were among the estimated 1,000 visitors at the museum's grand opening Saturday.

The ceremony included speeches from Gov. Terry Branstad, Danish ambassador to the United States Peter Dyvig, and other state and local officials.

After national anthems of the United States and Denmark, played by a band formed mostly of students at Elk Horn-Kimballton High School, most of the crowd sang a song called "There Stories Must Be Told." It was specially written for the occasion by Fylla Kildegaard of Pine Grove, Minn.

Stories To Tell

A large proportion of the population of Elk Horn and nearby Kimballton have stories to tell of the immigration of their ancestors from Denmark to western Iowa. But an even greater number of visitors who came from all over the country for Saturday's ceremony cherished such stories.

Among them was 78-year-old Helen Juhl of Waterloo. Both her parents were from Denmark and she grew up speaking Danish and eating Danish food. She credits her Danish heritage for her sense of appreciation of things and people, she said.

"Danes are neat and clean, too," she said. "That's one thing I like about being Danish."

But this event attracted the attention not only of Danish-Americans; many people in Denmark knew about it, too, thanks to the Danish media assigned to Washington, D.C.

Klaus Justsen, a journalist from the Jyllanos-Posten newspaper in Denmark, was covering the grand opening, as was a television crew headed by Frank Esmann, of Denmark's Channel One.

Justsen said many Danish-Americans who planned to be at Saturday's event had called relatives in Denmark to tell them to look for their names in the Danish press or their faces on television.

Frozen in Time

He said coming to a town like Elk Horn is like visiting a place frozen in time. "The shops and such are old-fashioned like the ones I remember from my childhood," he said.

Ambassador Dyvig, who brought a greeting from Queen Margrethe of Denmark, said something similar about the food he was served at Kimballton before the ceremony.

"It's how things were 30, 40 years ago in Denmark," he said.

The museum, nestled in the hills just west of Elk Horn, is the result of 10 years of fund-raising, organizing and building. It was evident from the speeches and from the conversations that it is a mark of enormous pride for area residents as well as for Danish-Americans around the country who helped with the $2.5 million project.

Elk Horn Mayor Jim Nielsen, in fact, referred to "Danish pride" in explaining how the project was completed.

"That's what it takes to get things done," he said.
