

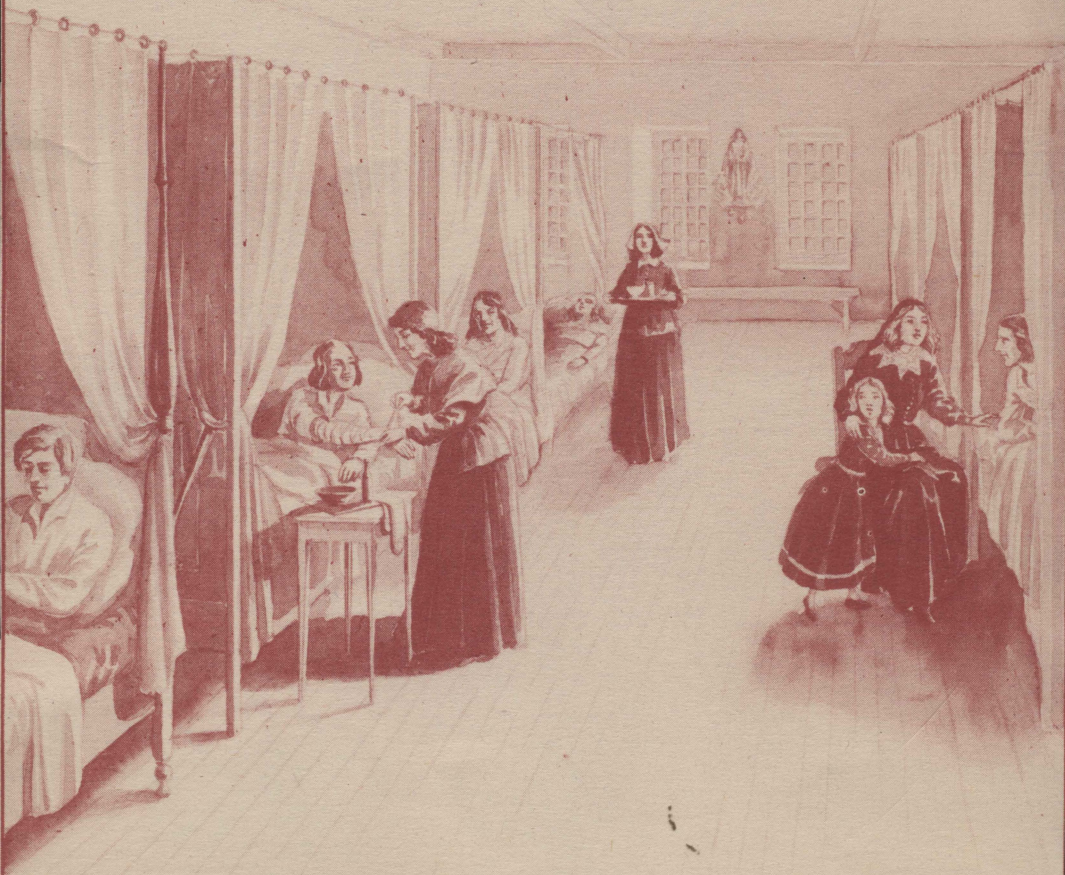

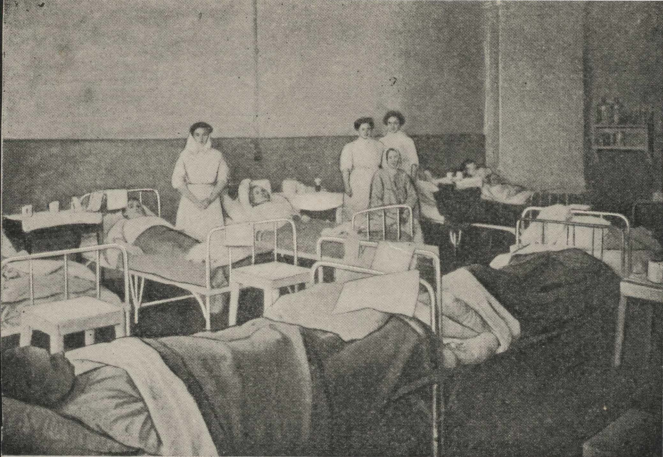

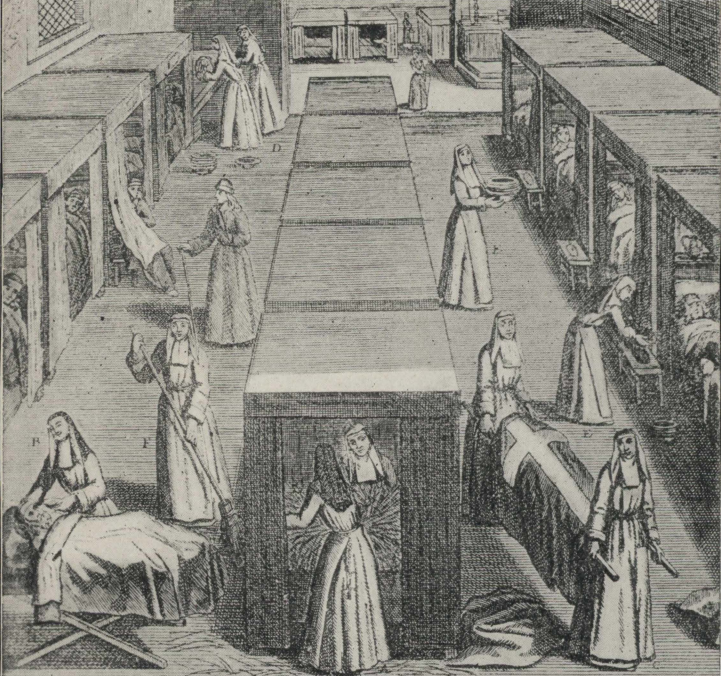

Fig. 75.—Ward in woman's hospital in Russia.

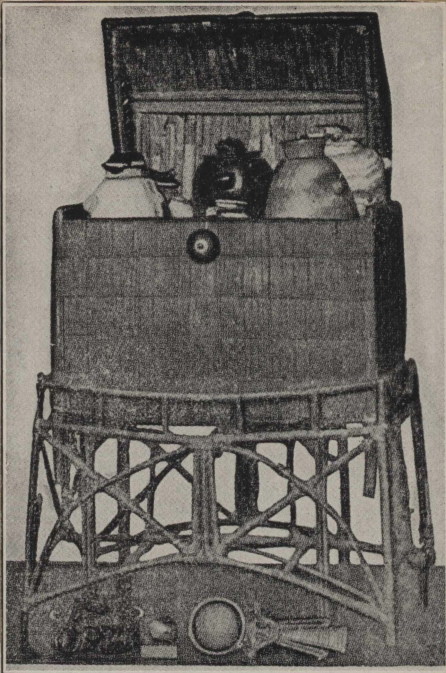

The Lady as Physician

From Womankind in Western Europe, by Thomas Wright. Groombridge & Son
London, 1859

*Exercice des Religieuses de l'hôtel Dieu de
Paris à 5 heures et demy du matin.*

- A Religieuses faisant les lits à la paille des malades avec une Novice
- B jeune Religieuse faisant boire un malade
- C Religieuse et une novice portant un mort à la Salle des morts
- D Novices curant les bassins des malades
- E Jeunes Novices rendant les bassins aux malades
- F Novice balayant la Salle.

A Domestic Medicine Chest of an Egyptian Queen, Mentuhotep, in the Berlin Museum. It contains five alabaster flasks and one of serpentine containing medicines. Near it lie two spoons, a small dish, and a number of medicinal roots

By courtesy of Dr. von Kle'n

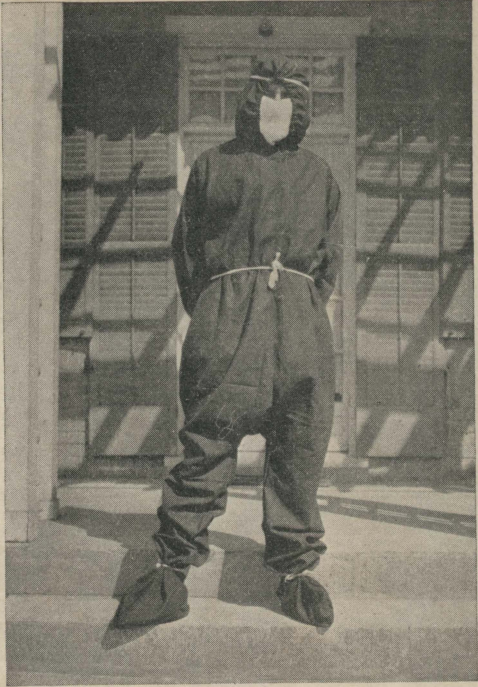

Fig. 105.—Nurse dressed for caring of plague, Shantung, China.
(Courtesy of Lakeside Publishing Co.)

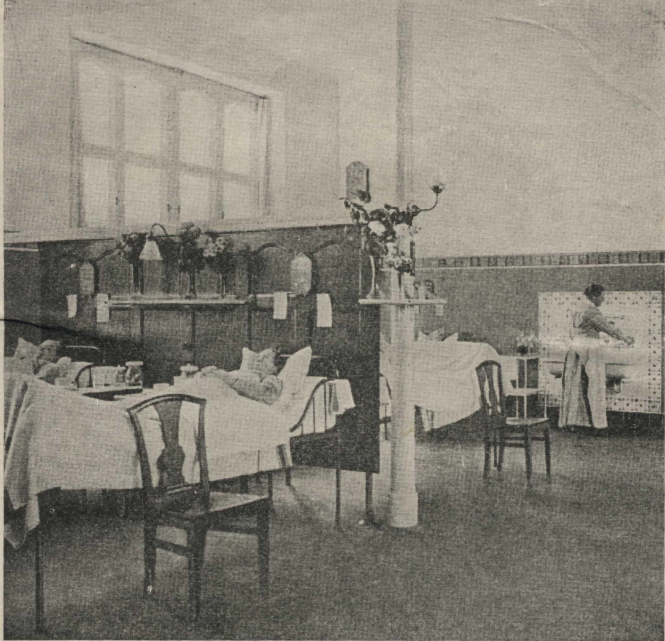

Fig. 70.—Ward in Rigs Hospital, Copenhagen, Denmark. Nurse at work.

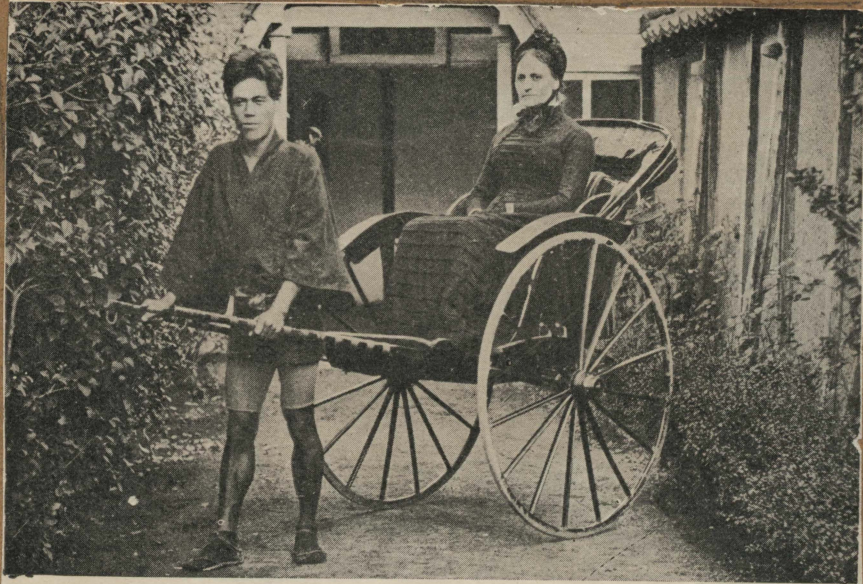

Fig. 78.—Miss Linda Richards in Japan. (From "Reminiscences of Linda Richards," published by Whitcomb and Barrows.)

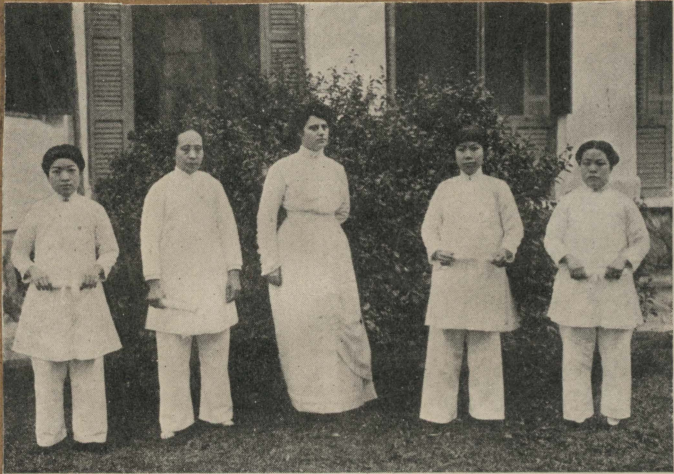

Fig. 84.—Miss Cora Simpson of Foochow, China, and her 1913 graduating class. (The nurses are Grace Go, Alice Cieng, Sarah See, and Mary Ding.)

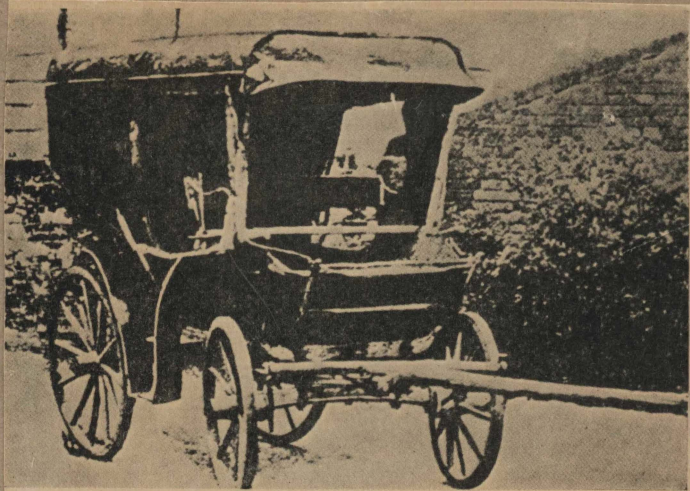

Fig. 13.—Florence Nightingale's ambulance. (Courtesy of Lakeside Publishing Co.)

FIG. 47.—Moving a patient from one bed to another.—(From Reid, Hoffman, Jennings, and Reed, "Nursing Procedures.")

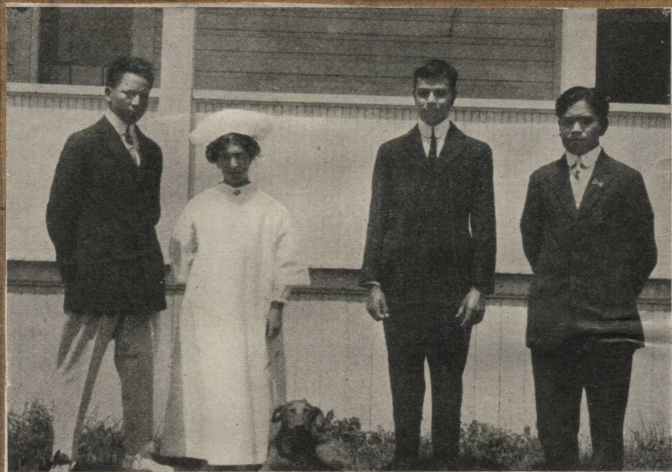

Fig. 91.—Patients and Deaconess nurse superintendent at United States Government Sanitarium School for Tuberculous Indian Children, 1915, Fort Lapwai, Idaho.

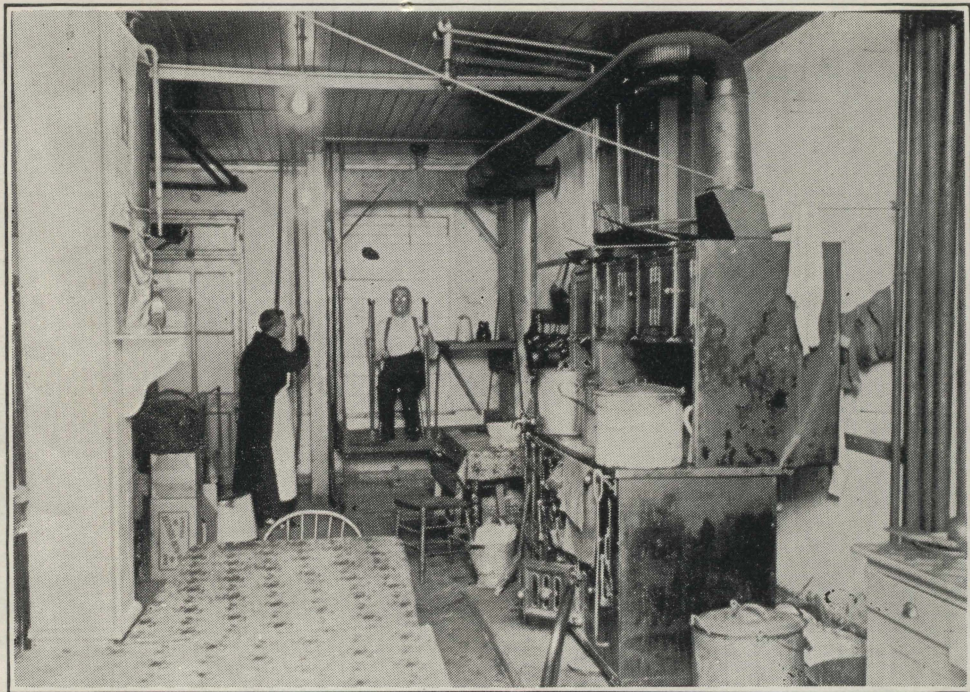

Fig. 47.—Class of colored nurses. Mercy Hospital, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

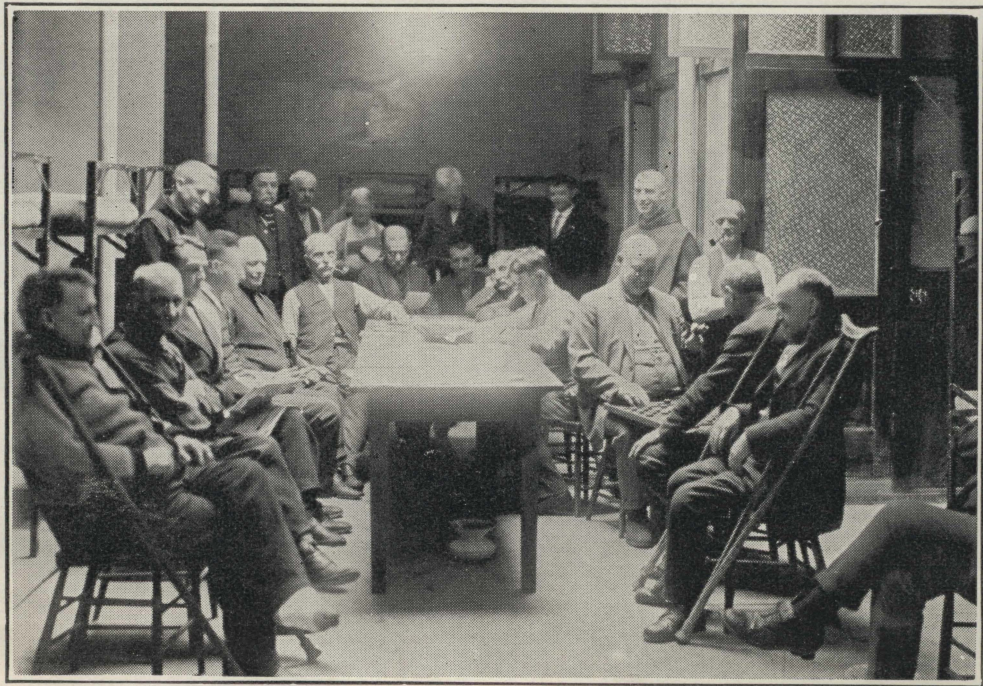

Fig. 48.—Class of 1921, Army School of Nursing. (Courtesy of The Modern Hospital Publishing Co.)

Fig. 80.—Group of Japanese doctors and graduate nurses who served in France in the World War (1915)
(Copyright, Underwood and Underwood.) (Courtesy of "The Trained Nurse and Hospital Review.")

One of the monks hoisting a patient to the Infirmary on the elevator.

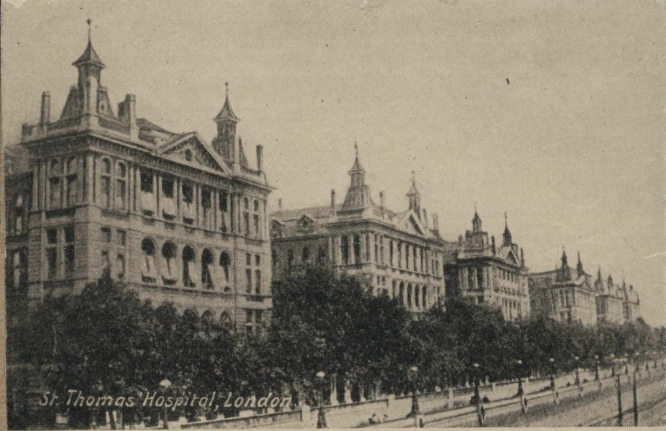

One of the rooms of the Refuge of Our Lady of Mercy.

The Hospitaller Brothers enlarging the Refuge.

The Hospitaller Brothers enlarging the Refuge.

St. Thomas' Hospital, London.

Fig. 15.—St. Thomas' Hospital, London.

Court of the Hospital of St. John of God, Granada

Montanya, for A History of Nursing

The Court of the Beaune Hospital

Les Edifices Hospitaliers, C. Tollet, 1892. Hamelin Frères, Montpellier

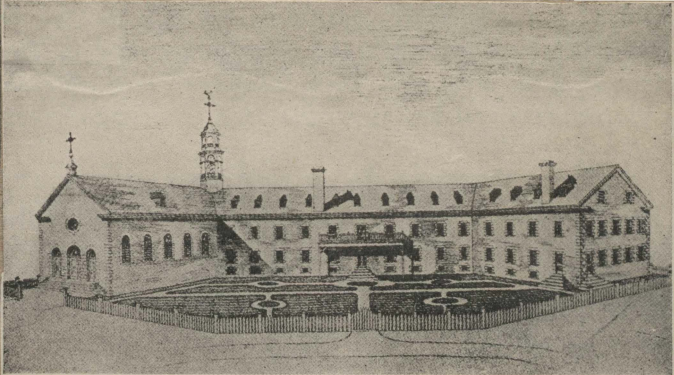

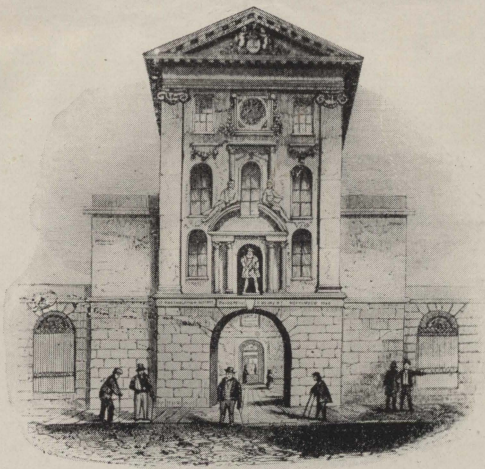

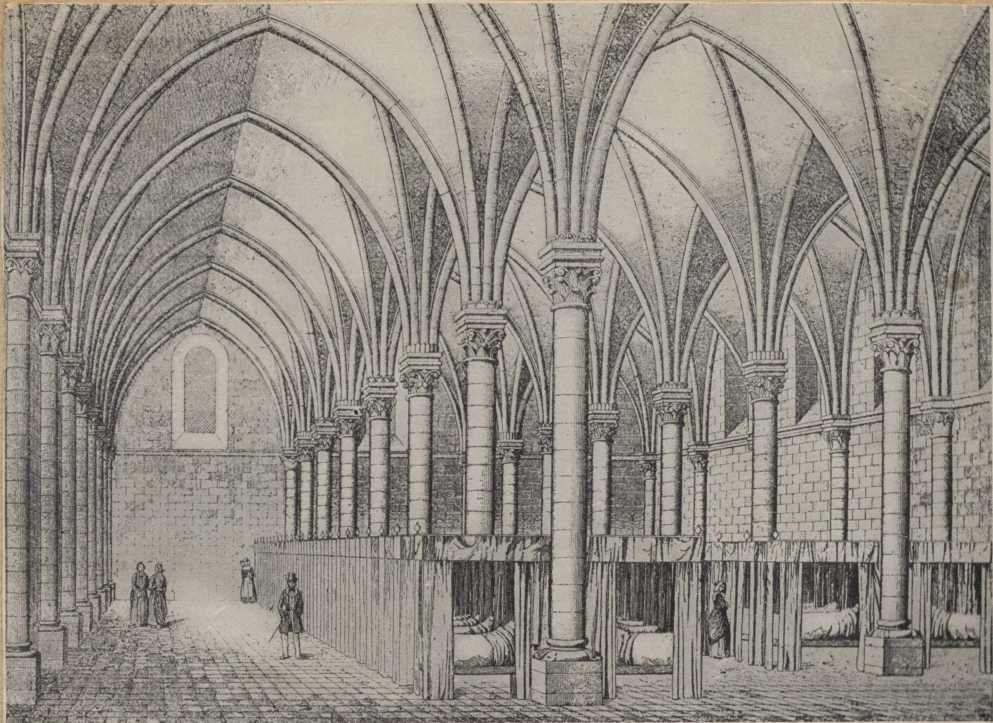

Fig. 58.—Hotel Dieu of Montreal in 1821.

Gate of St. Bartholomew's Hospital

Crypt of St. Bartholomew's Church

Hôtel-Dieu of Antwerp
From Les Edifices Hospitaliers, C. Tollet, 1892

The Drug Room of a Nursing Sisterhood
St. John's Hospital at Bruges

Alinari, photog.

The Care of the Sick
A fresco in Santa Maria della Scala, Siena

Rahere's Ward, St. Bartholomew's Hospital
Showing a nurse of the "Gamp" type

From The Royal Hospital of St. Bartholomew, by W. A. Delamotte

Ladies Serving the Poor in Charité Hospital

Les Edifices Hospitaliers, C. Tollet, 1892. Hamelin Frères, Montpellier