Winners Named In Conservation Workbook Contest

C. O. Rubow, Secretary of the Pine Lake Wild Life Club, announces the winners in the Conservation Workbook contest which is jointly sponsored by the Pine Lake Wild Life Club and the Hardin Soil Conservation District.

The winners in the sixth grade division were: first—Steve Perry, New Providence; second—Diane Cook, New Providence and third—Linda Hammond, Eldora. The winners in the seventh and eighth grade division were Doug Schallau of Steamboat Rock and Carolyn Gast of Steamboat Rock.

Sweatshirts with an emblem were given to the winning entries by the Pine Lake Wild Life Club. The conservation workbooks are made available to the sixth, seventh and eighth grades of Hardin county schools by the Hardin County Conservation District as part of their conservation program.

Other entries receiving honorable mention and awarded a travel bag for their work were Don Schroeder of New Providence, Christy Weyant of Eldora, Martha Kadolph of Hubbard, Cindy Stewart of Eldora, Tammy Last of Hubbard, Debbie Viet of Ackley-Geneva, Kurt Frisk of Ackley-Geneva and Larry Sly of Steamboat Rock.

According to Rubow, there were 997 students using the conservation workbooks in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades in Hardin county last year. The schools participating in the program were Ackley, Alden, Eldora, Hubbard, Iowa Falls, New Providence, Steamboat Rock and Union-Whitten.
