Road T-55 accidents spur calls for action

■ Fatal crashes prompt request to Grundy supervisors for safety measures.

By MATTHEW WILDE
Courier Staff Writer

NEW HARTFORD

Two fatal car crashes within the past three weeks between New Hartford and Dike have prompted area residents to petition the Grundy County Board of Supervisors to improve safety on County Road T-55.

Vic VandeHaar, manager of the Farmers Cooperative Co. in New Hartford and Dike and employer of one of the victims, is scheduled Monday to submit a petition to the board asking the county "to install rumble strips or other proven methods that will increase safety" on T-55.

Besides rumble strips — grooved sections of highway designed to alert motorists of an upcoming intersection — petitioners also want hills eliminated from the road to improve the line of sight for drivers. Three intersections on T-55 could receive the strips.

On Tuesday, county officials indicated rumble strips could be installed by this fall, but flattening the highway any time soon is probably too expensive. County Engineer Gary Mauer said rumble strips cost about $1,000 each, but road configuration could cost more than $400,000.

"Oh yes, I'm in favor of rumble strips, but I hate to answer for the rest of the supervisors," Supervisor Lee Arends said. "We installed some in the southern part of the county (the intersection of T-29 and D-67 north of Beamon) after a fatality a few years ago and there's been a lot of positive comments on them."

The petition drive was spurred by the deaths of two New Hartford residents. Carol Bruhn, 54, died on July 7 after being struck by an alleged drunken driver at the intersection of T-55 and County Road D-17. Terry Sanders, 52, of Wheaton, Ill., was arrested and charged Friday with vehicular homicide, a Class B felony. He remains in the Black Hawk County Jail in Lieu of $50,000 bond. Police said Wheaten was eastbound on D-17 and failed to stop at the intersection and struck Bruhn's northbound car broadside.

Daniel Allen, 29, died on June 24 after he failed to stop at a stop sign and struck a semi at the intersection of T-55 and Highway 20. Police said fog could have played a role in this accident.

Mavis Miller, a co-worker of Bruhn at the co-op, said the tragedies finally jolted the residents to do something about the unsafe road that connects the two small towns.

"Two deaths in three weeks really shook things up in both communities," Miller said. "She (Bruhn) was terrific. She was just a friend to us all," she added while sobbing.

"I drive that road every day to work and I've had it (near misses when people didn't stop at stop signs) happen to me several times. We're just trying to get as many signatures as we can, slow people down and increase the quality of travel on the road," Miller said. She lives in Dike and works in New Hartford.

In the past five years, Sheriff Rick Penning said the number of accidents on the five-mile stretch of road is relatively high, but it's also a high-traffic road compared to other county blacktops. During this period, accident

Road safety

Grundy County residents plan to submit a petition to the Board of Supervisors Monday asking for safety improvements, such as rumble strips at the intersections of Highway 20 and T-55 and T-55 and D-17, after two recent traffic fatalities.

reports indicate there were three fatality accidents, nine personal injury accidents and nine property damage accidents.

"It's (the traffic count) heavy, but I can understand why with workers and students traveling between both towns. If rumble strips will help, you have to endorse it," Penning said.

Mauer said the latest traffic count shows an average of 1,290 vehicles travel on T-55 near Dike each day and 1,360 vehicles travel on it near New Hartford. He said Iowa Department of Transportation guidelines to install rumble strips is 2.5 accidents per 1 million vehicle miles on a stretch of road. Taking into account T-55's traffic count, Mauer said 2.5 accidents every 10 years on T-55 would qualify it for rumble strips by the DOT.

However, because T-55 is a county road, the county does not need DOT permission to install the safety devices.

"I think it (rumble strips) would be a positive thing for the county," Mauer said. "Safety on T-55 has always been a concern for the county. ... Improving the line of sight probably won't happen though, since it's not in the county's five-year plan."

Woman killed in car accident

DIKE — A New Hartford woman died Wednesday in a two-vehicle accident four miles north of here.

According to the Dike Funeral Chapel, 54-year-old Carol Bruhn died from injuries suffered in the accident. The collision occurred at 5:15 p.m. at the intersection of County Roads T-55 and D-17.

According to police, a 1999 Ford Taurus driven by Terry Sanders, 52, of Wheaton, Ill., was eastbound on D-17 and failed to stop at a stop sign. His car struck Bruhn, who was driving north on T-55.

Sanders was airlifted to Covenant Medical Center in Waterloo. He was listed in good condition this morning with multiple cuts and bruises. Both vehicles were totaled.

"We pretty much figured out what happened. It appears (Sanders) blew through the stop sign," said Grundy County Sheriff Rick Penning.

The Grundy County Sheriff's Department is investigating the accident. Charges are pending.

Funeral services for Bruhn are pending at the Dike Funeral Chapel.

This is the second traffic fatality in Grundy County in less than two weeks. On June 24, Daniel Allen, 29, of New Hartford, died in a two-car collision at the intersection of County Road T-55 and Highway 20 in Dike.

Police said Allen was traveling south on T-55 and failed to stop at a stop sign the Highway 20 intersection and was hit by a westbound semi driven by 68-year-old Roger Fox of Radcliffe.

Larry Bruhn Retirement Open House

Larry Bruhn (Papa) says he has a lot of good "little" reasons why he is retiring. We think the best reason is that he is hardest working, most deserving Grandpa in the world!! Larry has been an LP Gas Service Technician for 36 years and will retire from East Central Energy in Waterloo on May 1st.

To celebrate, our family is having an open house at the New Hartford Community Center from 2:00-4:00 p.m. Sunday, May 2nd. Please come and help us make it a party!! No invitations are being sent and no gifts are requested.

Oh yeah, our papa's famous saying we now will be saying to him, "Here's to the good life!" Thanks for giving us your strong work ethic and your unconditional love and support. We love you!! Your children Laura and her husband Byron Dove, David and his wife Katie Jo Bruhn, Jennifer and her husband Jeremiah Lehr. Your good "little" reasons, Matthew, Ashtyn, Brady in Heaven, Carlee, Carol, Brandon, Kevin, Taylor and Haley.

Hola amigos!!! Getting a little better on the language here. We had a good day today and yesterday. We were able to talk with the doctor yesterday for a long time and get a lot of questions asked. Dad again had his chemo this morning and radiation. He has been doing so well. We have been blessed with meeting Darlene, a lung cancer patient down here. Neither one of them have been sick at all. For the most part they look and feel healthy. The "Mexican" attitude has relaxed dad quite a bit and so has Darlenes up beat attitude to leave it all to the Lord. She told dad to day not to be nervous about the surgery because the Lord guides there hands. He is truly in the hands of the lord. He is hear now in our friends, family and doctors. He will be the surgeon on that day. I see more and more happiness in Dad everyday-you can see it in his eyes. He wore a red tropical shirt to supper last night herein the hotel that I had found in Kohl's. Today he wore it again- it really lights him up and puts a skip in his walk like I was hoping it would. He likes these Mexican ladies down hear-they are very beautiful with there dark skin and hair. (You never know what we could bring home) :-)

I got a opportunity to speak with Vargas yesterday about my knee trouble I have had since high school. The nurse took my blood this morning and will again tomorrow morning for a series of tests they are going to run. Dr. Vargas right away called a specialist who believes it might be a thyroid condition. I have a appt. with him tomorrow at 11.00. We also have an appt. to meet with the surgeon tomorrow and have an opportunity to see the facility. We are really hoping that Dr. Nichols from Mayo will agree to do the surgery once he speaks with Dr. Vargas tomorrow on the phone. Regardless, everything with be lined up next week for the surgery to be set within 5-6 weeks of his last chemo that he receives on Friday.

On a lighter note: Josa' sung us 3 different Spanish love songs on the way to radiation today. He has a powerful, beautiful strong voice and is always smiling. On Saturday we are going to ride to the airport with him to see Darlene off. On the way back he is going to stop by the ocean so Dad can feel some squishy sand between his toes.

Dad is very thankful for all of his family and friends love, prayers, support and emails that he receives everyday. He tells me everyday to make sure that I am telling everyone of you just that. I continue to print off his emails everyday and loves to read them through chemo and at night before he goes to bed. He feels so blessed as I am sure you all know Dad loves every single one of you so very much.

With lots of love from Mexico!! Jen, Jim and Larry ps Laura or Katie would you please forward this message on to anyone who I missed-I do not have everyones emails that I would like to have. Thank You!!

Just wanted to update you on what is going on with dad. He arrived home on Sunday and is feeling great. He played outside with his grandkids on Monday and has "REALLY" enjoyed being at home. He said driving down his gravel road never felt so good.

Because of Dad's treatment being an out of country protocol he will need to return there for surgery. "Not" because Dr. Vargus will not work with the doctors in the states however the doctors in the states do not have statistics on protocols done out of country so cannot do treatment here, this is frustrating however understandable, to a degree. That is my only comment on that...

Therefore Dad will return to Dr. Vargus on Oct. 6 with 4 days of scans, tests, and some chemotherapy treatment before his surgery on the 11th. He will then stay there at the hospital approximately 7 to 10 days. Dad feels "very good" about the facilities down there which he visited. He also visited with the surgeons who feel very confident about the surgery.

Dad wants me to thank you for the many cards, visits, all the work done at the farm while he was gone, phone calls, and many prayers said for him. Physically and emotionally he is feeling stronger every day. As many of you know the last 5 years have been very difficult for dad since mom was killed. Many things have happened and his stress has been overwhelming. He is ready to move forward, to beat this cancer and to watch his grandchildren graduate. He is feeling more positive about his future than I have seen since that awful day 5 years ago. He is ready to let go of the past and enjoy retirement and life. Please continue to pray for his treatment to kill all the cancer and for his surgery to go smoothly in October and for his spirits to remain strong. God bless all of you for your caring and friendship towards Dad and our family. Laura

Jenny and I left this morning at 6 am. We had a 2 hour drive to the airport because of traffic but all was smooth and I got back at 4:30 and made it to Matt's last football game. Uncle Jim and Aunt Jane stayed with dad last night, Jenny and I stayed the night of surgery. It is very nice at the hospital. They have a full size bed beside dad's bed. The hospital is very nice, very professional and the doctors, staff, etc., is excellent. Jim met us at our hotel when we left this morning and said dad had a good night once they got the pain under control. He was very uncomfortable yesterday from the incisions. I called Aunt Jane when I got into Waterloo. She said dad had a good day and had walked a little. I talked to him tonight and he sounded pretty good. We all looked at the esophagus that was taken out, 4 inches (1/2 of the esophagus) in the middle was maybe the size of a dime of what was left of the tumor. They felt the edges were clear and were impressed by how much it had shrunk. One lung was deflated for surgery as they went thru the back to cut thru the esophagus, they also cut the stomach to clean that out as it was moved and attached to the esophagus. They started feeding today thru the stomach tube and took the draining tube out of his lung and took the catheter out. Thanks for all your prayers I just thought I would give an update. His phone # that is on the website is a US #. Love, Laura

From Katie Jo---Tuesday: Well, we are on a roller-coaster ride and I guess it is time to let you know about it. ---Monday night Larry was in great pain that caused him to go into shock. To make a long story short, he stabilized and they did a procedure this afternoon (Tuesday) to drain fluid from around his lung. They think he has a pulmonary embolism (blood clot) in the area that affects the lungs. Right now he is sedated and on a respirator to stabilize the pressure in the lung to keep it from collapsing. Precautions were taken to prevent the clotting, but it happened anyway. If there isn't any improvement in the next 24-48 hours, Larry will be transferred to a different facility. Other than the blood clot, he is healing very well from the surgery. Haven't heard a pathology report but all indications are good that the cancer is gone. His daughter Jean is flying down on Wednesday to give Uncle Jim support. He is a great care taker but this is a lot for one person. Please pray that the blood clot dissolves on his own, and that Larry continues his healing process. Please pray for all our families as we go through this journey. Please no phone calls until further notice. Hospital Address Oasis of Hope Hospital Paseo Playas No. 19 Playas de Tijuana Tijuana B.C. Mexico

But I will trust in You, O Lord: I say, "You are my God." My times are in Your hands. Psalm 31:14-15

Papa Larry will have a surgery again today to place a screen by his heart to avoid any blood clots. Yesterday he had a surgery to have a tracheotomy so they could take him off the ventilator and have the ventilator through his trach. This procedure will allow him to heal better and will allow him to speak. They are giving him less sedation so he will be able to wake up. His biggest hurdle will be to have his esophagus heal. There is a hole in his esophagus that must heal on it's own. The blood clot in his lung has dissolved but was the cause of some complications that Papa Larry now has to overcome. Please continue to keep him in your prayers for a recovery that will be slow but will be complete!!! The Bruhn Family are holding on to their Faith in the GOOD LORD that Papa Larry will recover. They believe that God is holding him in his hands and that through prayer their Dad will be healed!!! It is such a wonderful blessing to them to have your prayers!! Thanks so much for keeping their family close in your heart and for lifting Larry close to God!!!

Chuck was here this morning to tell us that if Jane can get her ticket changed, she will stay until Saturday. They still didn't get the trach done over the weekend but maybe today. They are working on changing the medicine that they use to sedate him. The new medicine they tried made him restless and they were afraid he would pull out tubes so they put him back on the old one again. When they let him wake up for awhile, he looked around but didn't respond when they told him to blink or squeeze their finger. But when the nurse brushed his teeth, he scowled like he didn't like the taste of the toothpaste. When the doctors turn him to his side, his heart rate goes really high, so they see that as a sign of him responding. The tear in his esophagus is still there. And he did pass some urine, so his kidneys are starting to work. I forgot to ask if he's still on dialysis 24 hours a day, but last I heard he was. Still sounds like a long road for him! Chuck said Jane is doing okay. She may call today because she needs to talk to me about a report that needs to be done. I'll bet she's exhausted!

Julie

Thurs. The surgery to put the filter in went well. About midnight last night Larry had another surgery to put a tube in to drain fluid from around his heart. He is resting much better today. The fluid is being caused from infection. Right now he needs many prayers that the doctors can treat the infection in a way that Larry is healed. Wednesday: Larry is off of sedation and pain medicine is being reduced. He RESPONDED last night by blinking his eyes and squeezing a hand when asked to. We are so excited that he is responding to family. He will be having surgery today to put a screen in to prevent blood clots from going to his heart and lung. This way he can go off of blood thinner permanently. CONTINUE TO PRAY FOR HEALING OF HIS BODY AND ESPECIALLY HIS HEART, KIDNEYS AND ESOPHAGUS! We are humbled by your continuing to pray for Larry and our family. Please continue to pray for the ESOPHAGUS TO HEAL ON ITS OWN..... Thought I would pass along his address once again for anyone who might like to mail a card to him. He has been sedated but members of his family believe he can hear them at times so your cards would be a great way to send love to Larry. :0) Jane and Jim Larry's sister and brother will be staying at the Bannister House, that address is Bannister House, 406 Dickinson Street, San Diego, CA 92103-8961. They have had some terribly long days and I am sure would sincerely appreciate any words of encouragement even though all they want is to see Larry get well. UCSD Medical Center Hillcrest Attn: Larry Bruhn-Critical Care #8 200 West Arbor Dr San Diego, CA 92103 He is fighting and infection which was the cause, please pray that the infection goes away and he can continue on with a full recovery. The doctors in San Diego have reviewed all of Larry's scans and see no evidence of cancer, also the blood clot has dissolved. THANK YOU for your prayers. Rejoice that you participate in the sufferings of Christ, so that you may be overjoyed when his glory is revealed. 1 Peter 4:13 Psalm 55:22 "Cast thy burden upon the Lord, and He shall sustain thee: He shall never suffer the righteous to be moved."

Tues: Larry is off of dialysis completely now as his kidneys are functioning on their own. Larry's heart and blood pressure are stable. Larry is off the ventilator and breathing on his own with the help of some oxygen, hopefully tomorrow they can put a piece in his trach so he can talk to me, that is very frustrating for him and heartbreaking for me, I am not a good lip reader. He is very determined. His close friends Larry and Joyce D. and their daughter were here today and dad really smiled a lot at them and gave Joyce a kiss, it was so good to have them here. We focus on the positives. He is still very critically ill but we are bound and determined that he will make it. Please pray for healing of his body, ESPECIALLY THE ESOPHAGUS! Thank you for caring....Laura went out on Monday and Jane went home today. Katie will be coming on Thurs. they are staying at the Bannister House, that address is Bannister House, 406 Dickinson Street, San Diego, CA 92103-8961. Subject: Prayers 4 Larry

Date: Mon, 22 Nov 2004 08:47:46 -0600

X-Priority: 3

Friday, November 19th 2004: I want to share a story from one of Dad's nurses she shared with me this morning. I was on one of my pacing journeys up and down the hall and she called me to her office and asked if I was Larry's daughter. She said she had met my husband and knew about the death of Brady and of my mom. She said that she was so pleased with Larry's progress and remains cautiously optimistic, she said #1 no one could believe it and #2 no one had ever seen a more devoted family. Sadly she said most of the people in CCU do not have anyone there with them. She then shared this with me, a week ago Wednesday my brother called and told Byron and I Dad was to undergo a procedure that he most likely would not make it thru to drain fluid from his heart. That night Kim, the nurse told me she is certain Dad seen an angel. She said she is very skeptical, has been a nurse a long time and never had seen this before and did not believe there was any truth to these types of stories. She said Dad had been completely unconscious for days and she was in with him and all of a sudden his eyes came wide open and he looked up and smiled for the longest time, she went to get another nurse so that no one would think she was crazy. She said, and then again he opened his eyes wide and looked up and this time almost laughed. She immediately looked at the monitors because she was afraid he was leaving. She is certain he saw 2 angels and feels it was my mom and Brady. She had goosebumps when she told me. Dad is still stable and getting a smaller trach today and getting closer to having it removed completely. Started physical therapy this morning and Katy and I will continue that today and over the weekend. Please pray for healing of his body, ESPECIALLY THE ESOPHAGUS!

Saturday, November 20th 2004: Today Dad encountered a few bumps in the road however is back on track and resting now. He is back on the ventilator however should be off again tomorrow. Thanks for your continued prayers.

Thank you for caring....Laura

Wed. Night-

Dad has continued to have small improvements thruout the day. His Oxygen level continues to improve, his blood pressure and heart rate continue to be good. The CT results showed pockets of fluid in his lungs which he will have drained tomorrow, this may be his source of infection. Byron and Jane (dads sister) will be flying out Thurs. morning so that Jenny and Jim can come home. They have been thru so much the last few days and we pray for God to give them strength and rest. Thank you for praying and caring for Papa Larry and our family. GOD IS POWERFUL and ALL THINGS ARE POSSIBLE THROUGH HIM!!!! Jane and Byron will be staying at the Bannister Family House USCD HealthCare 200 W. Arbor Drive San Diego CA 92103-8961 619-543-7931 Last Sat. -- Larry (Dad) was transferred by ambulance this afternoon to UCSD Medical Center - Hillcrest, 200 West Arbor Drive, San Diego, CA 92103 Dad is in the "Critical Care Unit room #8". Please pray for complete healing of Larry's body, he has many obstacles to overcome that have developed from the pulmonary embolism which was a complication that developed after surgery. Prior to this his cancer treatment went better than could have ever hoped for, dad was feeling very good and was back to running. Pathology reports that came back after surgery show NO CANCER, praise God!! Thank you so much for your continued prayers for Larry they are working!!!!

Tues.

Papa Larry had a good night and is doing much better. His heart rate is staying where it should be and his blood pressure is also, all without medication. His oxygen level is also getting better. Byron and Jane (dads sister) will be flying out Thurs. morning so that Jenny and Jim can come home. They have been thru so much the last few days and we pray for God to give them strength and rest. Thank you for praying and caring for Papa Larry and our family.

Jenny and Uncle Jim are with him at this time. Please pray for complete healing of Larry's body, he has many obstacles to overcome that have developed from the pulmonary embolism which was a complication that developed after surgery. Prior to this his cancer treatment went better than could have ever hoped for, dad was feeling very good and was back to running. The doctors feel his physical good health and spirit will pull him thru, it is going to be another fight. Pathology reports that came back after surgery show no cancer, praise God. Please pray for all our families as we go through this journey, especially pray for Larry's brother Jim who has not left his side since this journey began and has been a constant source of strength for us. Also pray for Jenny as she has been away from her family also so much this past couple months to be there for dad. We are giving our worries to you Lord, please carry our burdens and bring dad home to us.

Monday: Dad is able to sit up in bed on his own now and is able to do his physical therapy by himself. They will work on his legs more to try to get him in a wheelchair this week and eventually walking. He loves seeing your cards, thank you for caring.

Side note= it is important to remember how far Larry has come in 6 weeks. The professionals gave very little hope for recovery as he was on life support and fighting major infections. Just 3 weeks ago, we had a conference phone with the Doctors discussing quality versus quantity of life. They felt we were too optimistic for the situation. Every time a small improvement was noted, we were reminded of how serious his condition was. Since that phone call, Larry has made incredible improvements. We look at every small improvement because they do eventually add up. The professionals now will openly admit they can't believe how great Larry is doing. We do not deny he has a long way to go, but as his doctors and nurses now understand, we are very determined to bring him home to enjoy his family and friends. He is truly an example of the many prayers and determination of family and friends.

Sunday: Talked with Jenny this morning and Dad was doing good. He is able to point at letters to spell and is gaining alot of strength each day especially in his fine motor skills. Thanks for your continued prayers and support. His doctor said, "Larry is clinically better." We take this as a major positive. We thank the Lord for the healing he is doing in Dad's body and ask for his grace, peace and continued healing of Dad's body and Papa Larry had some difficulties Tuesday morning starting at about 1:00 a.m. He had internal bleeding that was causing him to grow very weak and was placed in the Intensive Care Unit to treat him. In intensive care he has been placed on a ventilator, his blood loss has slowed, and they have given him a chest tube to drain fluid from around his lung, and he is being treated for a bacterial infection.

They believe the bleeding came from his lung and trach area and the draining will help. They have given Larry several pints of blood also and he is doing well with that.

A CT scan has shown some fluid around his heart and this has caused some irregular heart beats today.

Please pray for Papa Larry's recovery, that the internal bleeding stops. Larry has made great progress and was breathing well on his own so we pray that the ventilator allows his body to heal and fight this fluid build-up and he can return to breathing on his own and building some strength.

Please pray for a restful evening for Larry.

Tuesday, Feb. 8: Larry had a chest CT to check the fluid. It is still there. Please pray for wisdom as the doctors determine what to do about it. He was off the ventilator and doing great today. As of 7:30pm he had been off 12 hours and still going strong. He had a great nap today and woke up and did physical therapy. He was able to stand up 3 times beside the bed. Tomorrow they will get him into a chair. Please add your prayers for Dusty Rawdon who is also in Iowa City right now with a recurrence of Leukemia and facing a bone marrow transplant. (same address as dads however put in JEW instead of IPCU) Their family needs guidance, strength and peace. Thanks for your prayers. Hello Everyone!!

First we want to thank you so much for keeping Papa Larry in your prayers. He is now at Covenant in Waterloo and he has been having a lot of difficulty at night sleeping and has been bleeding internally. He has been working during the day on some rehabilitation exercises but has been very restless at night since his move and really needs a good night's sleep!!!! Please pray for a restful evenings and for his internal bleeding to stop so he can keep his strength for rehabilitation... THANKS SO MUCH FOR YOUR CONSTANT CARE AND YOUR PRAYERS AND YOUR FRIENDSHIP AND LOVE!!!!

Larry was transported to Covenant in Waterloo this past week. He will be in a rehabilitation unit in Waterloo. Please continue to pray for his recovery and that he may be HOME soon.

FRIDAY, Feb. 25: Larry's nights have been rough and he is not getting rest so he is very weak and tired during the day. Hospital has requested a family member stay overnight to help him adjust to the new environment. Please pray for peaceful nights, increased lung strength and no more setbacks. Thank you for your caring, cards and prayers. Mailing address: Covenant Medical Center Skilled Nursing/Rehab Unit Room#125 3421 W. 9th Street Waterloo Iowa 50702

Wed., March 2: Where to begin? Monday night the nurse walked in and Larry's oxygen level was at 46%. They were able to bring it up and he was moved to the ICU. He does have pneumonia, and not exactly sure what else. He is on BIPAP (oxygen and air pressure) at night to help him breathe better at night so he can rest. He still has days and nights mixed up so he gets his most rest during the day. Will update when we know more information. And as always... THANKS SO MUCH FOR YOUR CONSTANT CARE AND YOUR PRAYERS AND FOR YOUR FRIENDSHIP AND LOVE!!!! Mailing address: Covenant Medical Center 3421 W. 9th Street Waterloo Iowa 50702.

P.S. There is an email link to patients at Covenant. Go to the website www.covhealth.com/message.asp and click on email patients.

Subject: Good morning

Hi! I had an email from T this morning with this news. She had written it on Saturday. Tarra is feeling great now. Dusty is better today but has a ways to go. Hopefully each day gets better and better.

I know that Tarra was planning to go back to work today. T and Dennis were glad to have her with them all of last week!

When I get more news I will pass it along. As I mentioned before keep sending the emails, cards and prayers! They are all appreciated! Have a good day.

Wed., March 30: Larry had a procedure on Monday to stop bleeding in his lung. It was very successful and on Tuesday he stood for 5 minutes! He is more determined than ever! He went on the trach collar for an hour (only oxygen) and did very well. His breathing stayed the same and he had no anxiety. We are very proud of him. There was another meeting with doctors and Larry reaffirmed that he wants to get better and is willing to take the path. He is writing very clearly, smiling a lot and joking with the nurses. Friday, April 4: Larry is on oxygen-only for 12 hours today and then back to the BIPAP machine. He is getting better at standing up with the aid of a walker. He still has strength! He even walked a few steps, made it to his chair, sat for an hour, and then made it back to bed with the aid of a walker. Pretty proud of Pappa Larry. There was another meeting with doctors (on Tuesday) and Larry reaffirmed that he wants to get better and is willing to take the path. Larry had a good weekend. He is up for company from 5:00-7:00 PM during the week and anytime on the weekends as he does not have much scheduled therapy on Saturday and Sunday. To meet his goal, Larry needs to be encouraged to keep a positive attitude and to keep doing the little things for himself. Larry's personal goal: To transition from rehab to home. Thank you to all of you who have supported Larry through this and have "continued" to be there for him. It has been a long road for all of us, however the longest for Larry. "His" faith and "his" will to live have been a true testament to us all and all of us appreciate the support and caring shown to our family. We are very proud of him and his courage. Tuesday, May 24: I know many of you check the websight for updates on Larry, and it saddens me to write this. Friday he had one of his better days to date. By 8 am he was dressed, shaved, sitting in a chair (all on his own) ready for therapy which he tolerated well. He also balanced a check book and played cards with his grandson Kevin. He was ready to start working on Thank yous to Fredsville and the people that have visited or sent cards. At some point Friday evening a doctor covering for another doctor came in without our consent or knowledge and stopped 7 of Larry's medications at once. By Sunday afternoon Larry was starting to go into shock and withdraw. By Monday morning the mistake was realized and he was immediately started on the medications. He continued to worsen during the day and by 3:30 this morning was moved to ICU still suffering from withdraw. None of the rehab staff knows why or how this happened. At the present time Larry is stable and comfortable, however not playing cards needless to say. We are disheartened, confused and tired, right now we cannot focus on the mistakes made, only on Dad and what is best for him. Thank you for keeping him in your prayers.

Friday: He enjoys his many cards and short visits from friends. He feels very blessed to have people care for him, and make the effort to let him know. "His" faith and "his" will to live have been a true testament to us all and all of us appreciate the support and caring shown to our family. We are very proud of him and his courage. St. Lukes Hospital ICU Larry Bruhn 1026 A Ave NE Cedar Rapids, IA 52406-3026

LARRY DEAN BRUHN

Larry was born June 15, 1945 at Cedar Falls, Iowa, the son of Ernest & Thelma (Petersen) Bruhn. He married Carol Luitjens on May 15, 1965 at Dike United Methodist Church. She preceded him in death on July 7, 1999. Larry graduated from Dike High School in 1963 and served in the U.S. Army Reserves. He farmed for 20 years and was a Gas Service Technician for 36 years, retiring on May 1, 2004. Larry was a very active member of Fredsville Lutheran Church. He died Wednesday, September 28, 2005, at the University of Iowa Hospitals & Clinics in Iowa City, Iowa, of complications from a pulmonary embolism, at 60 years of age.

Survivors include two daughters, Laura Dove and husband Byron and their children Matthew, Ashtyn, and Carlee of Dike; Jennifer Lehr and husband Jeremiah and their children Taylor, Haley, and Chase of New Hartford; one son, David Bruhn and wife Katie Jo and their sons Brandon and Kevin of Ely; one brother, Jim and wife Donna Bruhn of Dike; and sister, Jane and husband Chuck Christensen of Dike; three step-sisters, Dixie Maas of Walker, Barb and husband Vernon Lovell of Cedar Falls and Pat and husband Craig Lovell of Allen, Texas, and a step-brother, Jerry and wife Lavelle Fisher of Merville, Iowa. Larry was preceded in death by his wife, Carol, his parents, Thelma and Ernest Bruhn, his stepmother, Elsie Fisher Bruhn, his grandson, Brady Dove, and one sister, Sally Kay Bruhn.

Larry loved family, friends, and especially playing with his grandchildren and the children that adopted him as Papa Larry. Larry looked forward to retirement so he could spend more time visiting with others. Larry enjoyed camping, fishing, watching his grandchildren's events, working on his farm, reading the bible, running on the gravel road, sunsets and sunrises, restoring his 1964 Ford, or just tinkering in the shed, and a cup of coffee on the back deck enjoying Carol's beautiful flowers. Larry was a patient and loving man who thoroughly enjoyed the simple pleasures each day could bring.

Larry would want to thank each and everyone of you for supporting him and his family through cards, prayers, and visiting. Larry especially appreciated the people who took the time to visit and bring a little sunshine to his long hospital days.

Anton Bryhl

Siblings leave inheritance to C.F. Lutheran Home

CEDAR FALLS — Anton and Emma Bryhl, former residents of the Cedar Falls Lutheran Home, and their deceased brother, Emil, have bequest more than $388,000 to the Home.

Originally from Denmark, their parents raised nine children while farming near Plainfield.

Anton, Emma and Emil, who were close to each other, purchased a farm west of Cedar Falls, raising cattle and hogs. Emma was a 4-H leader for 30 years. None of the three ever married.

Emil died in July 1990. Emma and Anton moved to the Cedar Falls Lutheran Home and first resided in the independence living units.

As their health-care needs increased, they moved into the nursing home.

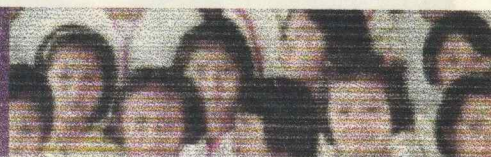

Anton and Emma were both fond of the many activities offered at the Home.

They were also longtime members of Nazareth Lutheran Church, one of the seven churches that sponsor the Cedar Falls Lutheran Home.

Emma died Jan. 9, 2000, at the age of 83, and Anton died Jan. 27, 2000, at the age of 88.

PEARL SYDENSTRICKER BUCK, 1892 - 1973

Pearl Comfort Sydenstricker was born on June 26, 1892, in Hillsboro, West Virginia. Her parents, Absalom and Caroline Sydenstricker, were Southern Presbyterian missionaries, stationed in China. Pearl was the fourth of seven children (and one of only three who would survive to adulthood). She was born when her parents were near the end of a furlough in the United States when she was three months old, she was taken back to China, where she spent most of the first forty years of her life.

The Sydenstrickers lived in Chinkiang (Zhenjiang), in Kiangsu (Jiangsu) province, then a small city lying at the junction of the Yangtze River and the Grand Canal. Pearl's father spent months away from home, itinerating in the Chinese countryside in search of Christian converts; Pearl's mother minister to Chinese women in a small dispensary she established.

From childhood, Pearl spoke both English and Chinese. She was taught principally by her mother and by a Chinese tutor, Mr. Kung. In 1900, during the Boxer Uprising, Caroline and the children evacuated to Shanghai, where they spent several anxious months waiting for word of Absalom's fate.

Later that year, the family returned to the US for another home leave.

In 1910, Pearl enrolled in Randolph-Macon Woman's College, in Lynchburg Virginia, from which she graduated in 1914. Although she had intended to remain in the US, she returned to China shortly after graduation when she received word that her mother was gravely ill. In 1915, she met a young Cornell graduate, an agricultural economist named John Lossing Buck. They married in 1917, and immediately moved to Nanhsuchou (Nanxuzhou) in rural Anhwei (Anhui) province. In this impoverished community, Pearl Buck gathered the material that she would later use in The Good Earth and other stories of China.

The Bucks' first child, Carol, was born in 1921; a victim of PKU, she proved to be profoundly retarded. Furthermore, because of a uterine tumor discovered during the delivery, Pearl underwent a hysterectomy. In 1925, she and Lossing adopted a baby girl, Janice. The Buck marriage was unhappy almost from the beginning, but would last for eighteen years.

From 1920 to 1933, Pearl and Lossing made their home in Nanking (Nanjing) on the campus of Nanking University, where both had teaching positions. In 1921, Pearl's mother died and shortly afterwards her father moved in with the Bucks. The tragedies and dislocations which Pearl suffered in the 1920s reached a climax in March, 1927, in the violence known as the "Nanking Incident." In a confused battle involving elements of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist troops, Communist forces, and assorted warlords, several Westerners were murdered. The Bucks spent a terrified day in hiding, after which they were rescued by American gunboats. After a trip downriver to Shanghai, the Buck family sailed to Unzen, Japan, where they spent the following year. They then moved back to Nanking, though conditions remained dangerously unsettled.

Pearl had begun to publish stories and essays in the 1920s, in magazines such as Nation, The Chinese Recorder, Asia, and Atlantic Monthly. Her first novel East Wind, West Wind, was published by the John Day Company in 1930. John Day's publisher, Richard Walsh, would eventually become Pearl's second husband, in 1935, after both received divorces.

In 1931, John Day published Pearl's second novel, The Good Earth. This became the best-selling book of both 1931 and 1932, won the Pulitzer Prize and the Howells Medal in 1935, and would be adapted as a major MGM film in 1937. Other novels and books of non-fiction quickly followed. In 1938, less than a decade after her first book had appeared, Pearl won the Nobel Prize in literature, the first American woman to do so. By the time of her death in 1973, Pearl would publish over seventy books: novels, collections of stories, biography and autobiography, poetry, drama, children's literature, and translations from the Chinese.

In 1934, because of conditions in China, and also to be closer to Richard Walsh and her daughter Carol, whom she had placed in an institution in New Jersey, Pearl moved permanently to the US. She bought an old farmhouse, Green Hills Farm, in Bucks County, Pennsylvania, today a National Historic Landmark. She and Richard adopted six more children over the following years.

From the day of her move to the US, Pearl was active in American civil rights and women's rights activities. She published essays in both Crisis, the journal of the NAACP, and Opportunity, the magazine of the Urban League; she was a trustee of Howard University for twenty years, beginning in the early 1940s. In 1942, Pearl and Richard founded the East and West Association, dedicated to cultural exchange and understanding between Asia and the West. In 1949, outraged that existing adoption services considered Asian and mixed-race children unadoptable, Pearl established Welcome House, the first international, inter-racial adoption agency; in the nearly five decades of its work, Welcome House has assisted in the placement of over six thousand children. In 1964, to provide support for Amerasian children who were not eligible for adoption, Pearl also established the Pearl S. Buck Foundation, which provides sponsorship funding for thousands of children in half-a-dozen Asian countries. In 1991, the Pearl S. Buck Foundation and Welcome House combined to form the organization known today as Pearl S. Buck International.

Pearl Buck died in March, 1973, just two months before her eighty-first birthday. She is buried at Green Hills Farm.

The Sydneys lived in Chungking (Zhenyong) province, then a small city lying at the junction of the Yangtze River and the Grand Canal. Pearl's father spent months away from home, itinerating in the Chinese countryside in search of Christian converts; Pearl's mother minister to Chinese women in a small dispensary she established.

From childhood, Pearl spoke both English and Chinese. She was taught principally by her mother and by a Chinese tutor, Mr. Kung. In 1900, during the Boxer Uprising, Caroline and the children evacuated to Shanghai, where they spent several anxious months waiting for word of Absalom's fate. Later that year, the family returned to the US for another home leave.

In 1910, Pearl enrolled in Randolph-Macon Woman's College, in Lynchburg, Virginia, from which she graduated in 1914. Although she had intended to remain in the US, she returned to China shortly after graduation when she received word that her mother was gravely ill. In 1915, she met a young Cornell graduate, an agricultural economist named John Lossing Buck. They married in 1917, and immediately moved to Nanchaichou (Nanzhaichou) in rural Anhwei (Anhui) province. In this impoverished community, Pearl Buck gathered the material that she would later use in The Good Earth and other stories of China.

The Bucks' first child, Carol, was born in 1921: a victim of PKU, she proved to be profoundly retarded. Principal Characters:

WANG LUNG, a Chinese farmer
O-LAN, his wife
LOTUS BLOSSOM, his concubine
PEAR BLOSSOM, his slave
NUNG EN, Wang Lung's oldest son
NUNG WEN, Wang Lung's second son
THE FOOL, Wang Lung's first daughter

Critique:

In an almost pastoral style, The Good Earth describes the cycle of birth, marriage, and death in a Chinese peasant family. The book is written realistically, without any overt attempts to awaken sympathy for any of the characters. It is the absorbing story of Wang Lung's life on the farm, his trip to the city when starvation threatens, and of his life until it is time for him to be claimed by the good earth.

The Story:

His father had chosen a slave girl to be the bride of Wang Lung, a slave from the house of Hwang, a girl who would keep the house clean, prepare the food, and not waste her time thinking about clothes. On the morning he led her out through the gate of the big house, they stopped at a temple and burned incense. That was their marriage.

O-lan was a good wife. She thriftily gathered twigs and wood, so that they would not have to buy fuel. She mended Wang Lung's and his father's winter clothes and scoured the house. She worked in the fields beside her husband, even on the day she bore their first son.

The harvest was a good one that year. Wang Lung had a handful of silver dollars from the sale of his wheat and rice. He and O-lan bought new coats for themselves and new clothes for the baby. Together they went to pay their respects, with their child, at the home in which O-lan had once been a slave. With some of the silver dollars Wang Lung bought a small field of rich land from the Hwangs.

The second child was born a year later. It was again a year of good harvest.

Wang Lung's third baby was a girl. On the day of her birth crows flew about the house, mocking Wang Lung with their cries. The farmer did not rejoice when his little daughter was born, for poor farmers raised their daughters only to serve the rich. The crows had been an evil omen. The child was born feeble-minded.

That summer was dry, and for months no rain fell. The harvest was poor. After the little rice and wheat had been eaten and the ox killed for food, there was nothing for the poor peasants to do but die or go south to find work and food in a province of plenty. Wang Lung sold their furniture for a few pieces of silver, and after O-lan had borne their fourth child, dead with bruises on its neck when he saw it for the first time, the family began their journey. Falling in with a crowd of refugees, they were lucky. The refugees led them to a railroad, and with the money Wang Lung had received for his furniture they traveled on a train to their new home.

In the city they constructed a hut of mats against a wall, and, while O-lan and the two older children begged, Wang Lung pulled a ricksha. In that way they spent the winter, each day earning enough to buy rice for the next.

One day an exciting thing happened. There was to be a battle between soldiers in the town and an approaching enemy. When the wealthy people in the town fled, the poor who lived so miserably broke into the houses of the rich. By threatening one fat fellow who had been left behind, Wang Lung obtained enough money to take his family home.

O-lan soon repaired the damage which the weather had done to their house during their absence; then, with jewels which his wife had managed to plunder during the looting in the city, Wang Lung bought more land from the house of Hwang. He allowed O-lan to keep two small pearls which she fancied. Now Wang Lung had more land than one man could handle, and he hired one of his neighbors, Ching, as overseer. Several years later he had six men working for him. O-lan, who had borne him twins, a boy and a girl, after their return from the south, no longer went out into the fields to work, but kept the new house he had built. Wang Lung's two oldest sons were sent to school in the town.

When his land was flooded and work impossible until the water receded, Wang Lung began to go regularly to a tea shop in the town. There he fell in love with Lotus and brought her home to his farm to be his concubine. O-lan would have nothing to do with the girl, and Wang Lung was forced to set up a separate establishment for Lotus in order to keep the peace.

When he found that his oldest son visited Lotus often while he was away, Wang Lung arranged to have the boy marry the daughter of a grain merchant in the town. The wedding took place shortly before O-lan, still in the prime of life, died of a chronic stomach illness. To cement the bond between the farmer and the grain merchant, Wang Lung's second son was apprenticed to Liu, the merchant, and his youngest daughter was betrothed to Liu's young son. Soon after O-lan's death Wang Lung's father followed her. They were buried near one another on a hill on his land.

When he grew wealthy, an uncle, his wife, and his shiftless son came to live with Wang Lung. One year there was a great flood, and although his neighbors' houses were pillaged by robbers during the confusion, Wang Lung was not bothered. Then he learned that his uncle was second to the chief of the robbers. From that time on he had to give way to his uncle's family, for they were his insurance against robbery and perhaps murder.

At last Wang Lung coaxed his uncle and aunt to smoke opium, and so they became too involved in their dreams to bother him. But there was no way he could curb their son. When the boy began to annoy the wife of Wang Lung's oldest son, the farmer rented the deserted house of Hwang and he, with his own family, moved into town. The cousin left to join the soldiers. The uncle and aunt were left in the country with their pipes to console them.

After Wang Lung's overseer died, he did no more farming himself. From that time on he rented his land, hoping that his youngest son would work it after his death. But he was disappointed. When Wang Lung took a slave young enough to be his granddaughter, the boy, who was in love with her, ran away from home and became a soldier.

When he felt that his death was near, Wang Lung went back to live on his land, taking with him only his slave, young Pear Blossom, his foolish-witted first daughter, and some servants. One day as he accompanied his sons across the fields, he overheard them planning what they would do with their inheritance, with the money they would get from selling their father's property. Wang Lung cried out, protesting that they must never sell the land because only from it could they be sure of earning a living. He did not know that they looked at each other over his head and smiled.

Taoist (Doist)

Taoist is a member of one of the 3 great religions of China. Taoism was founded in the 500 B.C. by the philosopher Lao Tse, Lao Tse was lived at the time of Confucianism, Buddhism and Zoroastrianism were being started. This also was the time of the Old Testament prophets Jeremiah, Ezekiel and the Isaiah of Bible.

Taoism is also a way of life. The Tao is the path. He who follows the path will learn the meaning of the Universe. Those who would follow the path must be kind and free of pride. Lao Tse taught that an injury should be returned with a great kindness. Lao Tse recorded virtues were humbleness and economy. Lao Tse recorded these teachings in a small book the Tao Teh Ching. Today there are about 43 million.

Jesse, Krista & Adam Burris

Jesse Allan Burris, age 23; of Parkersburg, Iowa, was born August 15, 1985, the son of Allan Ray and Carrie Christina Brockway Burris at Covenant Medical Center, Waterloo, Iowa. He received his education and graduated from Allison-Bristow High School in 2004.

Krista Renee Burris, age 20, of Parkersburg, Iowa, was born June 12, 1988, the daughter of Thomas Ray and Sara Darlene (Kriner) Selvage, Sr. in DuBois Regional Medical Center in DuBois, Pennsylvania. She received her education and graduated Cum Laude from the DuBois High School in DuBois. Krista continued her education and attended the DuBois Business College and received a degree in Legal Assistance. While attending college she was distinguished on the Dean's list. Following graduation in June of 2008, Jesse, Krista and Adam moved to Parkersburg, Iowa.

Adam Dean Burris, age 1, of Parkersburg, Iowa, was born the son of Jesse and Krista (Selvage) Burris on May 4, 2008, at the DuBois Regional Medical Center in DuBois, Pennsylvania.

In June of 2008 the family moved to their current home in Parkersburg, Iowa. On March 25, 2009, Jesse Burris was united in marriage with Krista Selvage in Allison, Iowa. Jesse was currently employed at McDonalds in Waverly, Iowa and Krista was a loving wife, mother and homemaker.

Jesse was a member of Allison Bible Church in Allison, Iowa. He loved fishing and hunting when he had the time and was an Iowa Hawkeye fan, converted Pittsburgh Steelers' fan. His son was his pride and joy and his family meant the world to him. He truly loved being with people and made lots of friends. He was always willing to help others in need.

Krista volunteered and enjoyed helping with Big Brothers and Big Sisters. She liked to go play bingo, enjoyed watching movies and was a die-hard Pittsburgh Steelers' fan. She enjoyed spending time with her family and friends. Her most treasured times were when the three of them were together and especially liked taking walks together.

Adam was a happy and content baby who was crawling, scooting and learning to pull himself up and his laughter was usually followed by his hands waving in the air. He loved to play ball and role it to others and especially liked to get into kitchens and play with the Tupperware and pots and pans. He was a big time daddy's boy and his mom's little nickname for him was Bubba. Grandma said, "He's grandma's little man and angel" and his aunt liked to call him Adam goober and would always make her laugh. Adam had a curiosity for his parent's cell phones and would either hang up on you or the phone would be switched to mute by his little fingers.

Jesse, Krista and Adam died Thursday, May 28, 2009, of injuries sustained in an automobile accident near Parkersburg, Iowa.

Jesse was preceded in death by an infant brother, Adam Dean Burris in 1984, and his maternal grandparents, Clayton and Elaine Brockway.

Krista was preceded in death by her maternal grandparents, Lewis and Virginia Kriner, and her paternal grandfather, Charles Selvage.

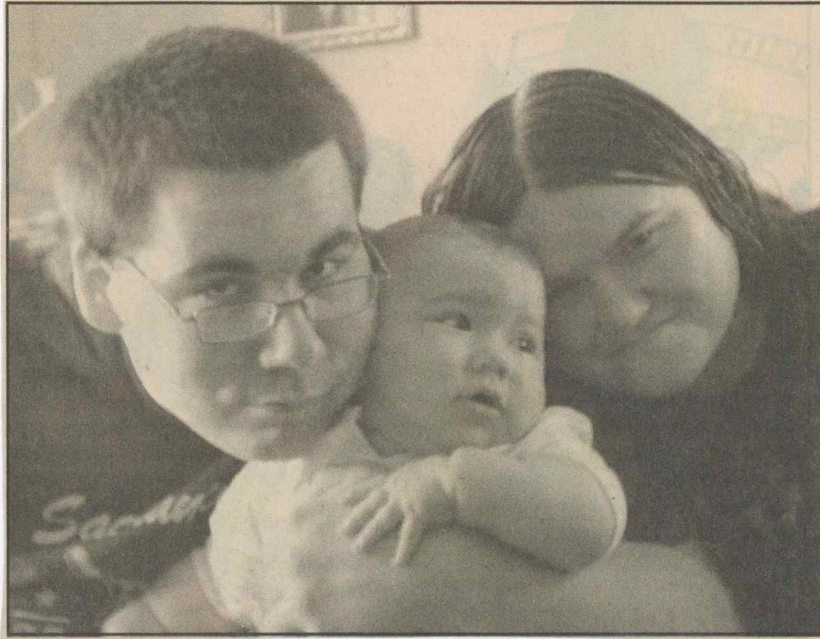

Jesse is survived by his father, Allan Burris of Allison, Iowa; his mother, Carrie (Andrew) Esposito of Parkersburg, Iowa; one sister, Amanda Burris of Allison, Iowa; two step-brothers, Anthony (Jessica) Esposito and Andrew (Kris) Esposito, both of Coco, Florida; two step-sisters, Andrea Esposito of Grundy Center, Iowa and Alison Esposito of Greene, Iowa; paternal grandparents, Delbert Burris of Elma, Iowa and Betty Burris of Charles City, Iowa; and several aunts, uncles and cousins.

Lyman was born on September 28, 1916, in New Hartford, Iowa, the son of Elmer and Fannie Scott Burns. He attended the New Hartford School system, and following his schooling, Lyman remained on the farm working full time with his parents. Following the death of his father, Lyman continued to work the farm with his brothers. Lyman and his brothers spent their lives together on the farm and continued to use horse and mule-powered equipment throughout their farming careers.

Lyman enjoyed fishing, hunting, and especially spending time with his family.

Lyman is survived by two nieces and their spouses, Faye & Leonard Proctor of Cedar Falls, and Beverly & Robert Maas of New Hartford; one nephew and his spouse, Jim & Jean Harp of Waterloo; two great nieces; five great nephews; one great-great niece; and three great-great nephews. He was preceded in death by his parents, two brothers, John Burns and Russell Burns; and by one sister, Kathleen Harp.

Following the graveside service, relatives and friends are invited to the New Hartford Odd Fellows Lodge for a time of fellowship with the family.
