

Soil Conservation Speech Winners

Dean Kelsey, (left), chairman of the Hardin Soil Conservation District, is shown here presenting awards to Susan Nehring of Hubbard and Gordon Reisinger of Eldora winners in the District Soil Conservation speech contest held at the Youth Building last week Tuesday. Miss

Nehring, won first place and Reisinger second. The winner will compete in the regional contest in July. Miss Nehring's speech was entitled "How Soil Conservation Affects My Future" and centered on a quotation of Theodore Roosevelt, "When the Soil is gone, man is gone."