

BEAVER LOG

THE 1961-1962 YEARBOOK STAFF PRESENTS!

BEAVER LOG

A FOCUS ON THE FUTURE

The Victory bell ringing out its news . . . coffee at Beaver . . .
Homecoming . . . bull sessions . . . study, classes, exams . . .
Greek activities . . . the faculty . . . the students . . . the college, four years of liberal arts training. These are traditions for Buena Vista. And many changes have occurred during 1961-1962, changes that will become traditions.
Future Homecoming queens will wear the crown presented by the Faculty Dames. The newly-established traveling trophy will be passed among the winning acts featured at the annual Variety Show. The new chapel will become the central landmark of the campus. The newly organized Student Senate will strengthen the functions of the Student Council.
Yes, this has been a year of transition. These pages record the events.

With her ideals firmly rooted in her Christian heritage Buena Vista diligently and persistently moves forward to meet the challenges and goals of the future.

These are the men who have invested a large portion of their energies to meet the challenge of providing a liberal arts education in a Christian setting to those called to be students.

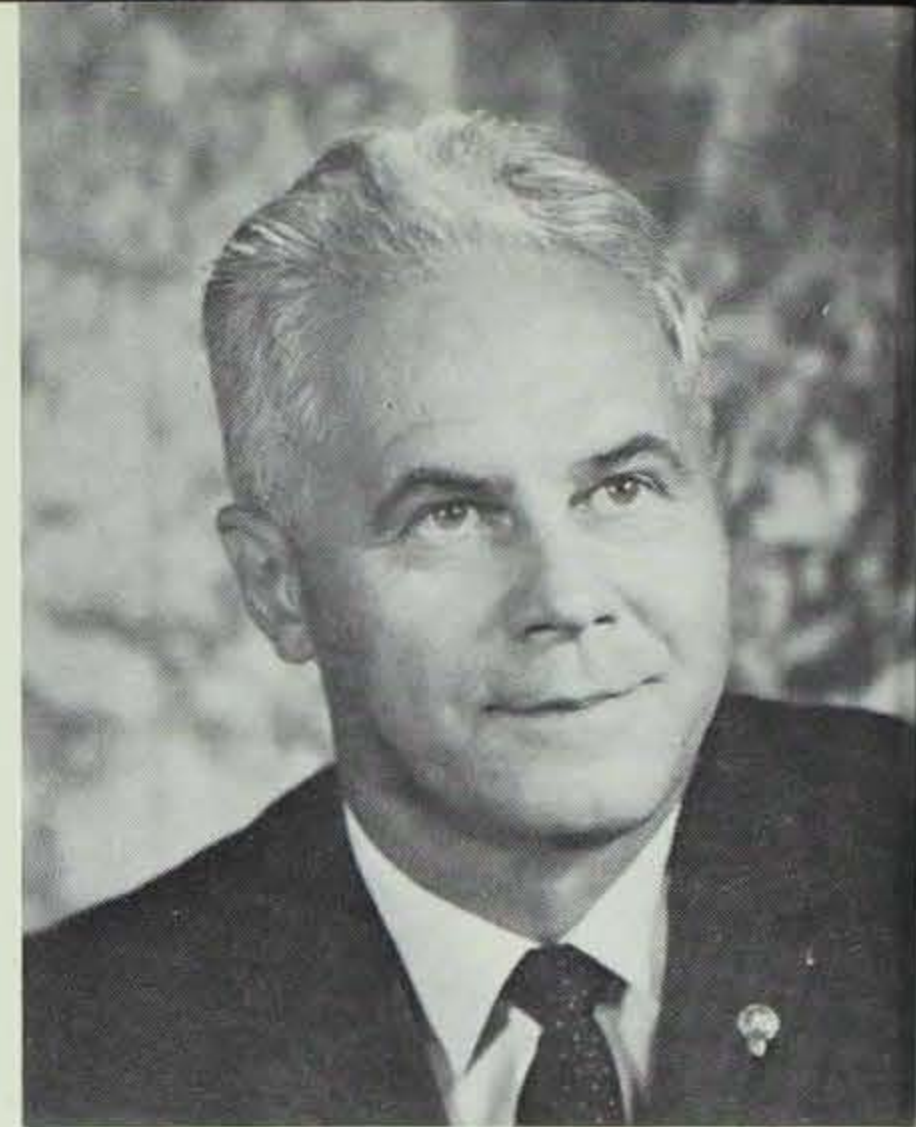

They have envisioned our needs, weighed our resources, and responded with a development program. The three-point "Design for Learning" program includes plans for the student body, faculty, and campus development and expansion.

The new facilities will not be complete in steel and brick for several months, but nevertheless they are in progress now as the administrators unite their efforts "to the Glory of God and the welfare of mankind."

PRESIDENT DR. WENDELL Q. HALVERSON

A scholar describes the social and political convulsions of our day as "a revolution of Rising Expectations."

The phrase aptly presents a goal for each of us. We hope you have felt "Rising Expectations" as to your personal worth and potential as a Child of God, a servant of Jesus Christ, and a true brother of all men.

I confess I have felt moments of exaltation as I have contemplated the "Rising Expectations" which the world asks of you and which I believe each of you must match in dedication and sacrifice.

My prayer is for your continuing Progress for the future. I expect great things from each of you. I wish for our beloved College a continuous revolution of "Rising Expectations."

"Finally, brethren, whatever is true, whatever is honorable, whatever is just, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is gracious, if there is any excellence, if there is anything worthy of praise, think about these things."

(Phillippians 4:8)

God bless and keep,

The Nu Delta Chapter of Sigma Tau Delta, national English honorary fraternity, was organized at Buena Vista in 1938. The purpose of the organization is to encourage the mastery of written expression and the appreciation of literature. SALESMAN

MILLER

Biff and Happy attempt to calm their father.

Without adhering to any special school of psychopathology, one can scarcely say catharsis is a valid definition of tragic effect, it means one thing above all: in the tragic experience we temporarily expel troublesome inner complications. We expel "pity" and "fear," to use Aristotle's terms, and the terms are broad enough to cover the most pathological elements namely, anxieties, fears, morbid grief or self-pity, sadistic desires, and the sense of guilt that these engender. In a successful tragedy, we see these drives enacted on the stage directly by characters with whom we can identify ourselves. They are our proxies, so to speak. And these emotions are, of course, aroused in us, and so externalized, in so far as we react with pity and anxiety and fear to the suffering on the stage.

The strength of this particular play comes, in part, from its moving presentation of a little man's failure, and, in part, from the author's use of the discontinuous fantasy technique made familiar by the expressionists of the 'twenties but rarely applied so cogently. Miller succeeds in pulling together the past and the present and in giving his work psychological and dramatic force. In Death of a Salesman he carries the long familiar trend toward middle-class tragedy to a triumphant climax. He manages, moreover, to convey a poetry of the commonplace, partly in his writing and largely in his imaginative use of the stage. Miller has proved himself one of the most successful exponents of the school of playwriting that blends modern realism with a poetry of the theatre.

WHO'S WHO

Ten Buena Vista seniors were selected by the editors of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Membership in "Who's Who" is based on scholarship, leadership, participation, and cooperation in college activities, general citizenship in the community, and promise of future success.

WHO'S WHO IN AFRICA

Joseph Awkon is an African Student receiving financial support for his education from Buena Vista students. Joseph became known to campus through one of his instructors, Ronald D. Olson, a Buena Vista alumnus, who is teaching in the commercial high school which Joseph attends in Omdurmann, Sudan, Africa.

This enthusiastic leader became interested in getting an education upon his conversion to Christianity approximately seven years ago. He was then able to attend the schools set up by the mission. Joseph states he has "walked one-hundred fifty-five miles in swamps, sometimes sleeping in the forests" during this search for knowledge. He was encouraged to further his education which meant leaving his village in the Southern Sudan. Tribal superstition created a fear that the curse of the father's death would be brought upon the family if Joseph would leave the village. He was able to gain his family's confidence and succeeded in borrowing enough money to begin his first year of additional study.

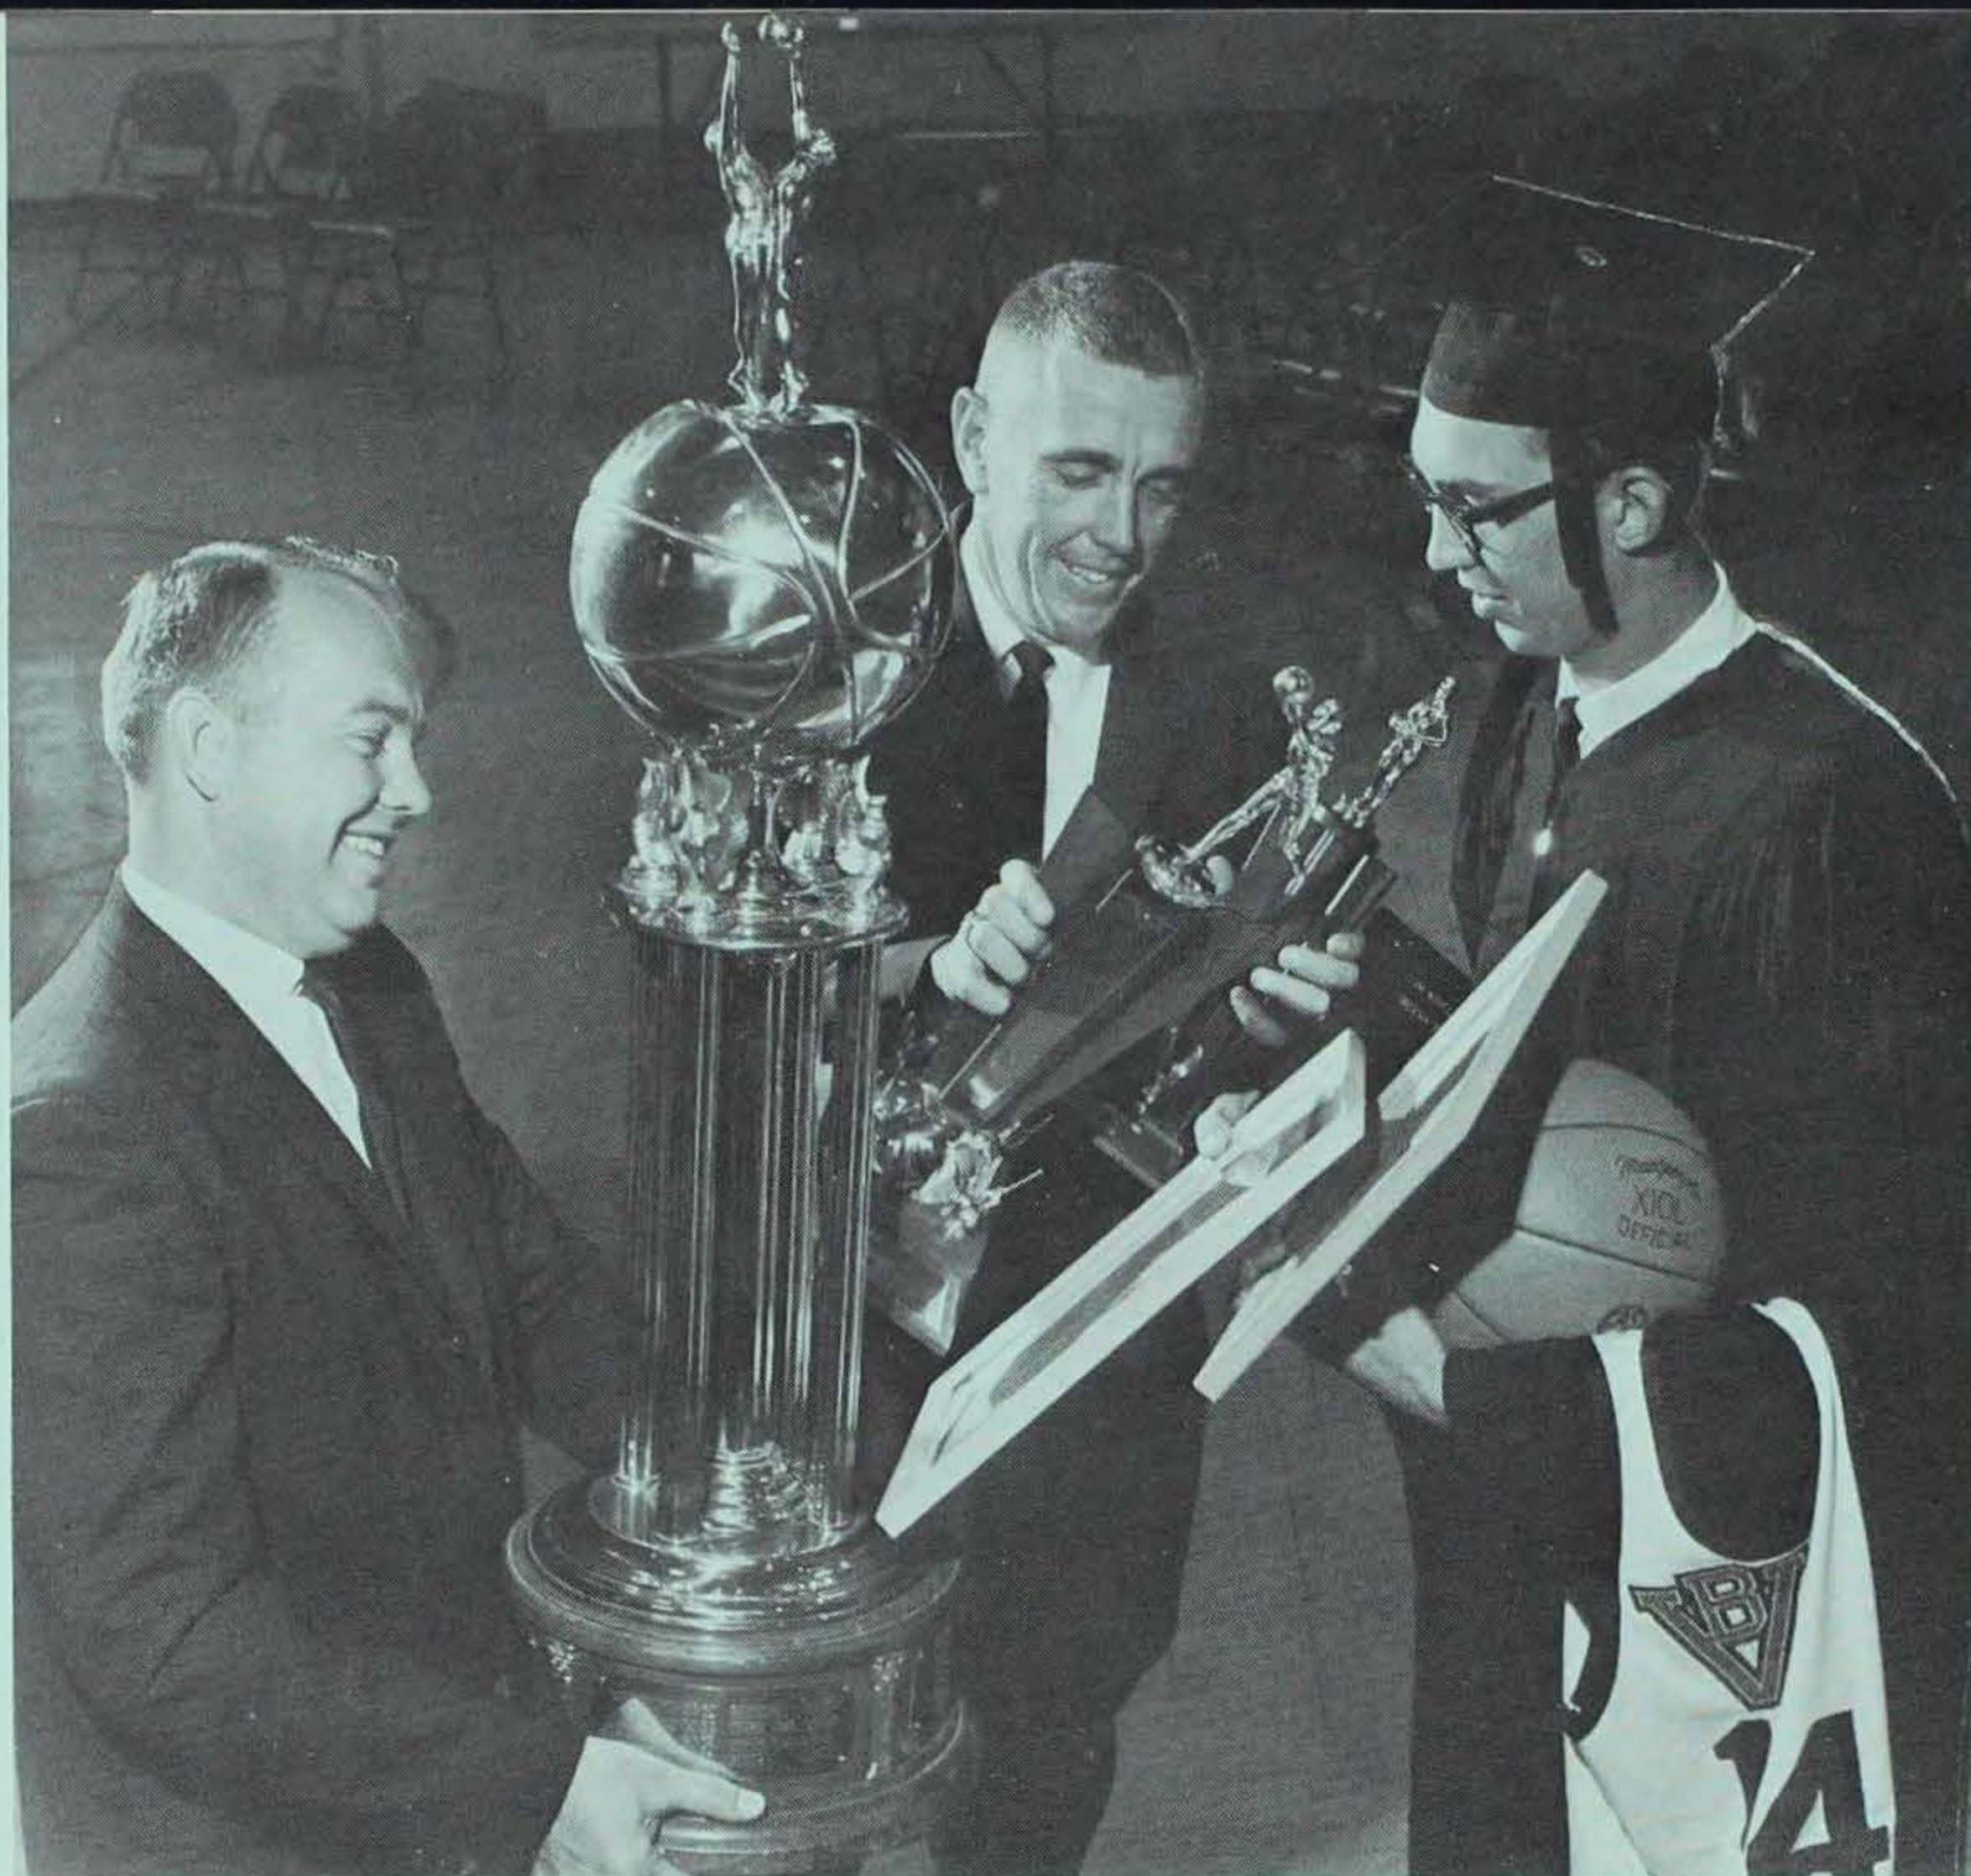

The Religious Activities Committee undertook the responsibility for the mechanics of a campus project to aid a student in need. Upon Ron's suggestion the committee, acting in behalf of the student body and the college, "adopted" this Sudanese youth. As a result, a yearly offering from the student body aids in off-setting his tuition and school fees. Joseph had to earn an additional ten pounds to cover his expenses this year; however, he feels the concern of the Buena Vista students came as an answer to his prayers.

Ron sees Joseph as an interested student and an active Christian. "Joseph has the sort of personality which draws the admiration and respect of others." He is now one of the three in a village of six hundred who are able to read and write. His education is of vital importance because of his heritage which is under the influence of tribal law and superstition. The impact he could have upon his people is immeasurable.

Buena Vista students salute their colleague overseas as he focuses his energies on a future dedicated to the welfare of mankind.

Robert F. Goheen, President of Princeton University for forty-one years, stated, "It's an affirmation that as we conduct our lives, we have the ability to louse them up, to be casual with them, or to try to lead them worthily. It's up to us. This is really what a liberal education is all about." Perhaps this is an extension of our college motto, "Education for Service." This is the challenge all assume when they become a part of the Buena Vista College community. The purpose of this year book has been to present the activities which have taken place during this, for us, a formidable year toward the goal of education for service.
