

1984-71

By using no-till planting methods, a layer of soil conserving crop residue is left on the surface. A good no-till system will reduce soil losses by 80-90% compared to conventional planting systems. Most planters are well suited to no-till.

200
P. Hunt

100%