Whitehead, Knutson Given Outstanding Conservation Award

Kermit Whitehead of New Providence and Caleb Knutson of Radcliffe were honored during the 23rd annual conference for Soil Conservation District Commissioners held last weekend in Des Moines.

Whitehead was presented the outstanding soil conservation commissioner award for the North Central Region 3 during the banquet. The contest was sponsored in Iowa by Wallace's Farmer magazine.

Also during the banquet, Knutson was presented the Goodyear

Tire and Rubber Co. award. He and Milton R. Jordening, Eldora area farmer, will participate in a trip to Goodyear Farms in Litchfield Park, Ariz., in December as part of the award. Jordening was named outstanding farmer operator to be given the trip and Knutson qualified as a member of the district's board of commissioners.

That both awards were to be presented was announced in mid-summer by the soil conservation office. Attending the conference from Eldora were Chuck McCarty, work unit conservationist with the Hardin Soil Conservation District, Knutson Whitehead and Carroll Hobson, commissioners.
