NINETEEN - THIRTY-SIX

AUTUMN

*"There is something in the Autumn that is native to my blood—
Touch of manner, hint of mood;
And my heart is like a rhyme,
With the yellow and the purple and the crimson keeping time."*

Autumn! What magic is concentrated in that word! Leaves crunching underfoot, hillsides dizzy with color, and frosty dawns that call the laggards from their sleep. The harvested fields lie naked; a wind hums through the cornstalks that stand like exclamation points against the brilliant blue of the sky.

With every gust and whirl the wind re-seeds the earth. The air is filled with eddying clouds laden with the germs that a golden autumn has brought to rich maturity. They seek a home in the beds of dried leaves, in the musty loam of October. Here they will lie throughout the coming days of winter, unheeded by the careless passerby, but slowly germinating into full and productive life.

For this is the season of preparation. Without it spring could never come again.

While all the world outdoors is undergoing this vigorous change, academic life proceeds in an analogous manner. School re-opens after the summer holiday and the first weeks are indeed a time of whirlwind and bustling activity. Excited freshmen scurry around the halls hunting frantically for their next class room. Even seniors join in the excitements of a school year just beginning. But in time things settle down, order is restored out of this chaos, and routine reigns supreme. The new seeds planted begin to take root and send out their tendrils in all directions.

While field and highway echo with the shouts of football fans and track contestants, other sports, intellectual rather than physical, also begin their career. Debaters gird their strength in maiden efforts to conquer their opponents by the sharpness of their wits and tongues; amateur actors con their parts with fervor; musicians spend long hours rehearsing the tunes for the next musical comedy or concert. The whole school is a beehive of industry, and the sound of the workers is loud and full of promise.

Less spectacular, but none the less important, are those seeds planted at this time in classroom and laboratory. They too lie almost forgotten in the dark reaches of the mind as the seeds scattered heedlessly by the west wind every autumn lie neglected in the secret depths of hillside and valley. But like them, they shall come with the warm winds of spring to the fullness of their power and bear the fruit they were destined to produce.

For autumn is the season of beginnings. The wind trumpets a challenge to the blood; the world is electrified by a passion to begin its life anew. Vigor flows back into the earth exhausted by the harvests of summer. Tree and field and sky send their message into the blood—a message of creation. Gladly do we turn our hearts and efforts to join in the universal urge towards a new seed-time that leads to the rich harvests of the future.

The Student Council

The aims of the Student Council are to teach co-operation, to make the student self-directing, to provide opportunity for developing leadership and initiative, and to foster and explain the functions of democracy. Through self-government students have a controlling voice in affairs of interest to them.

The Student Council consists of fourteen members elected from the four classes in school. The election is held under supervision of council members. Five members are elected from the senior, five from the junior, three from the sophomore, and one from the freshman class. They are elected for a term of one year. Election to this organization is one of the highest honors a class can bestow upon its fellow classmates.

One of the functions of the Student Council is to sponsor an Honor Study Hall. This study hall has no teacher in charge, but members of the council check attendance. Another function is to try all persons violating the pink slip rule. A third function is the furnishing and upkeep of the club room, for the use of which a small fee is paid.

Board of Education

All honor to these men and women who spend many hours of each year striving to gain the best in every way for our school. Sometimes we do not realize how vital a part they play in our well-being, so smoothly running is the organization they have built up. Unquestionable loyalty, unselfish service, and a deep and productive interest have they given to student body and faculty. Now, especially, can we see how they have succeeded, despite depression and drought, in the maintenance of physical and scholastic standards. More than ever before, and as a result of their efforts, no one need be denied a high school education in Ottumwa. There is a curriculum for every pupil; five different courses of study, adjusted to any possible variation in talent or taste, make it possible for every boy or girl in Ottumwa to prepare himself for a fuller life. We have our board to thank for this improvement in the adjustment between school and pupil. How proud we are of these partners of ours, the living examples of the power of education to mold the human spirit.

The Senior Class

"Not in vain the distance beckons. Forward, forward let us range, Let the great world spin forever down the ringing grooves of change."

Forward, forward is the ringing call of the world today! We hear it in the security of our sheltered existence and feel a stirring of the pulse, for we shall soon have to answer this challenge of the past to the future. The world is waiting for us, eager to see how we accept it. Shall we be the means of bringing our forbears' dreams of a better life, "a federation of the world," to fulfillment? Here we stand now, poised on the brink of a new way of living. It is an exhilarating moment; how much of the future depends on our decision!

We have spent four years of concentrated effort to increase our knowledge—knowledge of books, of men, of community, and world affairs. We have been given training as journalists, as statesmen, as athletes, and as actors. Every phase of the great world outside our school doors we have developed in miniature. The talents which will control our later lives we have cultivated seriously. From our ranks will emerge the scientists, the authors, the statesmen, the parents of 1966. What a burden of responsibility lies on us! It is no wonder that at this moment we ponder our chances of success in overcoming the difficulties that lie in store for us.

But what are difficulties to us? Think of the habits of industry we have acquired. Remember what we have learned in classroom and gridiron. Friendships have been formed which will light up the pathway—personal friendships, and that larger sense of world-fellowship which will guide us over the dangerous shoals ahead.

Then here's to the adventures of the future! Here's to the idealism of our youth and the strength that will make it possible for us to make our ideals realities. This is a strategic moment for youth—let us make the most of it. Our past is but a prologue—we thrill to the challenge that lies ahead.

*"Men, my brothers, men the workers, ever reaping something new;
That which they have done but earnest of the things that they shall do."*

CLASS SONG

We're the class of thirty-six,
Farewell, Ottumwa High!
Now the time has come to part,
But we must go to heed life's call.
The memories of you will live
Deep in our hearts forever;
Your ideals will always guide us
And lead us on to victory.

"Making all futures Fruits of all pasts—"

Seniors! We juniors salute you! You are leaving us now, confident that our capable hands will take up the task where you left off.

Your success leads us to hope that our efforts during the next year will result in as great accomplishments. So far we have served chiefly as a foil to your more spectacular achievements; we have been in rehearsal for the star part to be played when you resign the stage to us. The leading role you filled so successfully in our school life becomes our responsibility.

With the greatness of your example before us we hope to equal, and if possible, surpass your record as seniors. While you take your first steps in the outside world, we within the narrower boundaries of our school shall strain to become all that our three years of training lead you to expect from us.

Then on with the march! We view the future unafraid. We have worked and played and sung; now let us reap.

*"And I looked into the future, far as human eye could see,
Saw a Vision of the world, and all the wonder that would be—."*

Here we are, at the half-way mark. Before us lies the best of our high school career. Up to now we have been busy adjusting ourselves to a new and larger environment, taking our first steps under the wise guidance of our elders. But now we are thoroughly acquainted with our new life, and we can begin to fill more important positions in sports and scholarship. We can begin to show the stuff out of which we are made, in a field of action broadened by increasing age and worldly wisdom.

The last two years have been full of sowing; the harvest of the next two years will show what the crop is worth. Come, Sophomores, let us not disappoint those who planted the seed, and those who have hopeful eyes fixed upon us. Let us make our vision of the world theirs; let us point them to the greater glories that lie ahead.

The Freshman Class

*"The year's at the spring
And day's at the morn."*

We are interested in all beginnings, because we too are in the first stages of our development. The freshness of early morn is in the air, birds sing, and the dew twinkles on tender new grass. Like the earth sending out new shoots and the dawn flushed with the rebirth of day our minds and spirits are awakening. We too are working towards the brightness of midsummer and full noon.

Now, more than ever, although the world has always fixed a hopeful eye on its youth, we are conscious of the tasks that lie before us. The older generations, weary of the struggle, are looking to us to carry on what they dreamed of accomplishing but for which the world was not yet ready.

We have not waited to begin our contributions—we have already begun to show what we can do. We are preparing to carry on the tradition of progress, and to seize the torch passed on by preceding classes.

FOOTBALL

Though not presenting a team as strong as the 1933 or 1934 eleven, the 1935 football team of the Ottumwa High School won for the third successive year the Little Six Championship. The Ottumwa Bulldogs played a nine game schedule in 1935, losing only two of the nine games.

The opening encounter, a non-conference game, was played with the Albia Demons on the Demons' home field. The game took place on a "jinx" day, Friday the thirteenth, but it held no terrors for the Bulldogs, for they won by a score of 12—0. The fans saw Ottumwa make 221 yards compared with the six yards gained by Albia. Maynard Black and Dick Megrath accounted for the Ottumwa touchdowns.

The next game, also an out-of-town affair, was against Davenport, a fast team that gave the Bulldogs their first defeat since the 1932 season. Maynard Black showed great defensive ability and the team fought bravely, but the final gun was shot with the score 14—0 in favor of Davenport. Ottumwa launched a furious passing attack in the closing minutes of the game, but in vain.

Ottumwa then opened its Little Six Conference schedule against Fairfield. Fairfield led 7—0 at the half, when an inspired Bulldog team came back and scored three touchdowns in the last half to win the game 18—7. Ottumwa used a forward-lateral pass system which worked effectively against the Trojans. This system accounted for one touchdown with Black crossing the marker. The other two touchdowns were the results of passes with Spurgeon and Black on the receiving ends.

In the first home game the Mt. Pleasant Panthers were the opponents of the Bulldogs. The Panthers scored early in the first quarter and maintained their 6—0 lead over Ottumwa until the fourth quarter. Then a short punt by Mt. Pleasant, a touchdown by Ottumwa, and the extra point kicked by Harold Packard brought about a 7—6 victory for Ottumwa.

The Polar Bears, hailing from North High School in Des Moines, were the next to fall victim to the Ottumwa Bulldogs to the tune of 6—0. Statistics prove, however, that the Polar Bears did not make a bad showing. Ottumwa scored early in the first quarter and held that lead throughout the remainder of the game. The Polar Bears, scrapping hard, outplayed the Bulldogs in the last three quarters but failed to score.

Against Muscatine, Ottumwa again skimmed through, winning its third Little Six Conference game by a one point margin. Johnny Wey accounted for Ottumwa's touchdown by traveling around the end for sixty-five yards to score, and again Harold Packard kicked the winning point. The final score was 7—6, Ottumwa winning.

The next game was at Washington where Ottumwa completely outplayed its opponents in a sizzling game of football. Megrath and Black scored touchdowns for the Bulldogs. Ottumwa made a safety when Spurgeon blocked a punt and it rolled out of bounds in the end zone. The final score was 15—2 in favor of Ottumwa. Washington made its two points when Harold Packard was tackled in the end zone.

The next struggle was a terrific one against the Burlington Greyhounds. The stake was the Little Six Championship. Both teams were undefeated so far, but Burlington was given the advantage over Ottumwa by the sports writers. Ottumwa paid no attention to the predictions and rode roughshod over Burlington, scoring a 20—6 victory to clinch the Little Six title. Wey and Packard accounted for the touchdowns. One of Wey's two touchdowns was the result of another long run of 68 yards.

On Armistice Day the Ottumwa Bulldogs wound up their 1935 football schedule by playing the Oskaloosa Indians. With a sleet storm raging which made the field very slippery and the ball hard to handle, Ottumwa was scalped by the "Oskey" Indians with a score of 13—0. Gallagher, Oskaloosa's all state fullback, made all of Oskaloosa's points. One of his touchdowns, the high light of the game, came after a 74 yard run.

CROSS COUNTRY

Below is a picture of Ottumwa's 1935 Cross Country squad. This squad won second place honors in the State Meet to bring Ottumwa's total up to three firsts and two seconds in the last five years.

A team composed of Eugene Yates, Kenneth Beebe, Bob Shoemaker, Ed McDermott, and Dick Eckroat represented Ottumwa in the four meets which the Bulldogs entered. This five man team placed second in all four of the meets.

The first meet, a dual with Oskaloosa, was held in early October. The Bulldogs—Beebe, Yates, Shoemaker, Eckroat, and McDermott—got fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, and ninth places respectively.

Next came the Oskaloosa Invitational Meet which was to be a warm-up for the State Meet scheduled for the next week. Ottumwa, with Yates running second and Beebe and Shoemaker winning ninth and tenth places, piled up enough points to win second place team honors.

The last meet of the year was the State Meet held in Iowa City on November 2. For the fourth time, Oskaloosa finished first and Ottumwa finished second. Individual runners secured eleventh, fifteenth, twenty-first, and twenty-second places for Ottumwa.

In all the four meets in which Ottumwa was entered Eugene Yates placed highest among the Bulldogs. Yates, Eckroat, and McDermott will be back next year eyeing the state title which was held by Ottumwa in 1931, 1932, and 1933.

WINTER

*"Announced by all the trumpets of the sky,
Arrives the snow; and driving o'er the fields,
Seems nowhere to alight; the whited air
Hides hills and woods, the river and the heaven,
And veils the farm house at the garden's end."*

After the storm has spent its force the world lies quiet under an immaculate blanket. Gone are the tempestuous winds of autumn and the flocks of wild birds streaming southward through frosty air. How still, with the stillness of death, the world seems!

But deep down under the surface of this dormant earth days of activity and quiet achievement follow one another. For this is not death—this is simply a time set aside by nature for a deeper exploration into the heart of life.

This is the time for long happy hours around the fire-place, when friends sit and share their hopes and dreams. Outside, snow sifts gently through the luminous air into the bushes and earth. Inside, a group of young people amuses itself with song and story. Soon the warmth of the fire and the mysterious, silent blanketing of the earth lull them into drowsiness, and they begin to weave dreams in the leaping flames. The future opens up like a flower, and they see themselves happy, famous, and full of wisdom.

This is the time for strenuous sports out-of-doors. Hillsides ring with skiers streaking down; bob-sleds creak against the hard-packed snow; skaters execute intricate figures on the solid ice in the river.

This is the season for thrilling basketball tournaments. Players grow tense as the score stands 25—25!

A breathless hush hangs over the gymnasium. Ottumwa sinks a basket—and pandemonium breaks loose—Programs sail through the air, cowbells clang, the band breaks into a paean of joy. When the gun barks the end of the game a multi-colored throng flows out onto the floor. The Bulldogs have won!

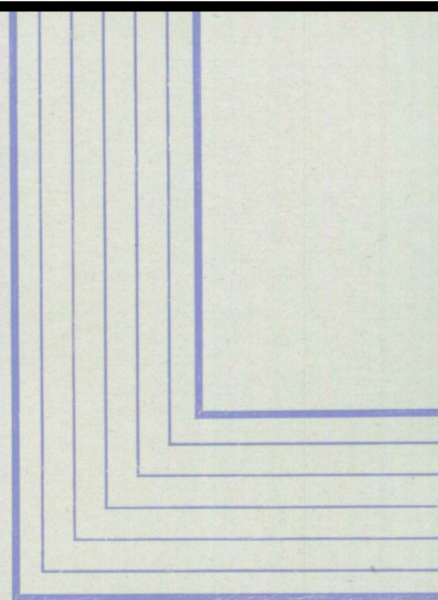

But above all, these short, brisk days when dusk settles in early are the time for scholarly activities. Everything else takes a secondary place. Sport is exhilarating, friendly chats amusing, but there is work to be done! Long hours in the library poring over the wisdom of the ancients, or in the laboratory investigating the pathways of modern science—these are the hub of our winter life. An impulse to understand the world in a larger sense animates our struggles. We enter with zest into the grown-up world that takes a serious interest in the progress of humanity.

Then who would lament the passing of autumn? Keen as are its joys, those of the winter are deeper and stronger. Who would anticipate the magic of spring? The sober happiness of winter has its own beauty.

Membership in the Torch Club is the highest honor which can be conferred upon a high school student. Election to this society should be the goal of every boy and girl.

To become a member, the student must have observed four cardinal principles: Scholarship—"The power of the mind to dispel ignorance through scientific investigation of the truth;" Leadership—"The power of personality that blazes the trail for man's upward climb;" Character—"Which sets the seal of righteousness upon every endeavor;" Service—"The beginning and end of education, the altar of altruism from which God's blessings to man have been vouchsafed."

This club is not a local organization, but only one chapter of the National Honor Society. Election of members is not made by students alone; each candidate must receive the approval of the entire faculty of the high school and a representative group of seniors.

The emblems of Torch Club are a keystone and a flaming torch. The keystone bears at its base the letters S. L. C. S., which stand for the four cardinal principles on which the organization is founded. As the keystone is placed by the architect to hold the perfect arch in perpetual stability, just so the structure of our education must be held firm and true by those virtues represented in this symbol. The torch is symbolic of the onward march of time, as generation after generation of students passes on those qualities of scholarship, leadership, character, and service to its successors.

The Arguseers

Under the guidance of Mr. Norris, two very useful and necessary organizations are maintained. They are "The Argus Daily" and "The Argus News." "The Daily," distributed throughout the advisory groups each morning, contains information concerning events of the day and the coming week. Through their work on this publication, the staff members are gaining valuable training in journalism.

The other publication, "The Argus News," appears every two weeks. In its four to eight pages appear feature articles, news articles, humorous columns, a calendar of events, a sports section, and an advertising section.

The Arguseers also include in their duties the maintenance of a current event bulletin board, which is always up-to-date and full of interesting news stories.

National Honor Society Initiates New Members

Bacon Frying and a Hog Calling Demonstration

At the recent initiation dinner held at the home of Corinne Phillips, the old members of our National Honor Society passed the Torch, the symbol of Scholarship, Leadership, Character, and Service, on to the new members. The guests of honor were the Torch Club sponsor, Miss Enoch, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Douma. After dinner the fourteen new members were initiated both formally and informally. President Kenneth Beebe opened the formal initiation by explaining to the new members the honor which had been conferred upon them for their efforts in the past. Each succeeding speaker first lighted his or her torch from the one held by Mr. Beebe. The speakers were as follows: Betty Trautwein—the four ideals of the club; Elwood Buchman—the key-stone and flaming torch; Janet Stoltz—Scholarship; Josephine Taylor—Cooperation; Marjorie Edmund—Leadership; Betty Pickett—Character; Charlotte Pratt—Service, and Frances Crozier—The Emblem of the Society. The nine new members then formed a hollow square within the cir-

Further Notice

"Double Door," the Dramatic Club play, is to be presented in the auditorium March 5th and 6th. This play was one of the outstanding successes of the 1933 New York season. It has also been played on tours, in London, throughout England's principal cities, and in the films.

This play deals with the struggle of Victoria Van Bret in her household on Fifth Avenue in New York City. She rules with an iron hand over her sister, Caroline, and her half-brother, Rip, in taking care of the Van Bret estate and in regulating the money. When Rip marries a girl of lower social position Miss Van Bret refuses to be kind, because of her family pride, and help the girl find happiness. Victoria, in her partial insanity, goes so far as to plot to kill the newly wed wife of her half-brother. In spite of her cunning cruelty in ruling her family and servants, she never loses the outward charm of being a born aristocrat. It is her evil deeds planned in her aristocratic manner that make Rip come to his senses and rebel.

The performance takes place in the strange sitting room

This club is purely a social one as the members do their work in the library during school hours. The members become acquainted with many literary masterpieces and magazines of popular student interest. The club meets once a month and each semester a guest party is held. Besides being of help to students checking books in and out, the librarians spend much time in mending books and organizing cards.

BASKETBALL

Ottumwa played an eighteen game basketball schedule in 1935, winning thirteen games and losing five.

The first conference game was with Washington. Ottumwa won by a score of 24—23. Burlington and Keokuk fell victims to Ottumwa next.

Ottumwa started the new year by defeating Muscatine to the tune of 29—21. Fort Madison fell next, to the score of 25—16. The game with Fairfield featured an overtime period, with Ottumwa winning 28—26. The next, a slow-moving game, saw the Bulldogs defeat the Mt. Pleasant Panthers 22—18.

Maynard Black and Louie Farrington, playing their last game, helped Ottumwa win an easy victory over the Washington Demons, 25—19.

Against Fairfield, the Trojans came out on the long end of a 39—33 score, then the Bulldogs won 42—33 from Mt. Pleasant, Harold Packard collecting 28 points.

Fort Madison staged a successful rally to win 26—24, but Ottumwa defeated Muscatine 26—20, thus finishing second place in the Little Six Conference.

Then came the tournaments. The Bulldogs breezed through the Sectional, defeating New Sharon and Oskaloosa. In the District Tournament Ottumwa defeated Indianola and Albia.

In the State Tournament, Ottumwa, advancing to the semifinals by way of defeats over Maloy and Diagonal, was defeated by Ames and then by Webster City.

A stirring bit of action in the Muscatine game. Buyack, Packard, and Farrington of the home team are shown.

Pep! Pep! and more pep! is the cry extended to the student body. Without it nothing can be accomplished. A rooting, enthusiastic audience does more to buck up and inspire a team than any words of encouragement from individuals. The knowledge that the crowd is pulling for them has a beneficial effect on the players. They draw new vim, vigor, and vitality from the enthusiasm of the onlookers led by the "Pep Club," composed of four cheer leaders: John Wilcox, Herbert Grooms, Dick Salter, and John Lancey, who have the job of leading the school cheering section and inspiring the students to yell.

The Pep Club, in co-operation with Miss Davidson, Chairman of the Faculty Pep Committee, presents pep chapels prior to games, tournaments, or track meets, to arouse enthusiasm and pep for the approaching battle. Various stunts of a humorous nature are presented and usually a faculty member or Ottumwa business man makes a short talk. These chapels show that the student body, the faculty, and the townspeople are behind the team. Competitive yelling fairly shakes the skylights and cannot fail to impress the boys who represent us in athletics.

You must play the game with all your might,

And never, never give it up.

Come on and fight, fight, fight for your honor bright,

The orchestra, directed by Mr. Dayton, offers an opportunity for all students who play musical instruments and who are interested in music to show what they can do, especially at the state music contest. In addition the orchestra performs at all the evening performances such as the lyceum productions, the Dramatic Club plays, and High School Night. It serves as an excellent "between-the-acts" stimulant and helps to keep the audience in a mood sympathetic to the performance. Once a year it gives a concert in conjunction with the band.

The band, under the direction of Mr. Dayton, is composed of Otumwa high school students who play any kind of band instrument and are interested in music. It participates in the state music contests and has received the ranking "good." The band plays for the pep chapels, at football and basketball games, and before plays and programs. Without its support many of our entertainments would fall very flat. The new uniforms purchased last year present a stirring sight on parade.

The five select groups—the Girls' Trio, the Girls' Sextette, the Boys' Quartette, the Boys' Sextette, and the Mixed Quartette have been contributing to a large number of programs during the past year. All of these groups except the Girls' Trio and the Girls' Sextette were entered in the Sub-District Music Contest at Burlington last spring. Two of them—the Boys' Quartette and the Mixed Quartette—added a great deal to our Open House Night program.

The most important events in the year as far as the voice department is concerned are the two operettas and the music contests. Both of these require a great deal of hard work by many people before the finished product is ready for performance. Tryouts are held for the leading roles in the operettas, for which parts anyone in the voice department may compete. The members of the choruses are very carefully selected from the Mixed Chorus groups and go through a period of intensive training for several weeks before the production is staged. The voice contests held at Washington and Burlington this year were eagerly anticipated.

SYNOPSIS

ACT I. Scene 1. Living room of the Gomez Rancho. Afternoon
Scene 2. Same. Twenty minutes later.

ACT II. The Rancho garden. A morning two months later.

ACT III. Scene 1. Interior of the mining shack at engineer's camp, one week later. Early afternoon.

Scene 2. Living room of the Rancho, later the same afternoon.

In November of this year the music department presented its biannual operetta, "South In Sonora." This colorful Mexican production was equal to any of its predecessors, and its bright costumes, snappy dialogue, and beautiful music made a show which will not soon be forgotten. Charles Wakefield Cadman, who has appeared on our stage, is a well-known composer of various types of music, and the score of this operetta is no exception to his usual scintillating style. The second musical show of the year, "Harmony Hall," promises to be an even greater success.

SPRING

*The Spring is here—the delicate-footed May,
With its slight fingers full of leaves and flowers,
And with it comes a thirst to be away,
In lovelier scenes to pass these sweeter hours.*

Spring—the growing time of nature; spring—the mating time; spring—the season of youth! With the first balmy breeze, the pussy-willows, the first robin, people of all ages feel a quickening of the pulses, an excitement in the heart. It is as if when the sap starts running in the trees some of that new life is transferred into the human body. There is a renewed vigor, a desire for new scenes and new activities, an antipathy for work commonly known in all circles as "spring fever." In our grandfathers' day this fever was guarded against by daily doses of sulphur and molasses. But to-day the only evidence of this dread disease is the longer list of absences from school for indefinite reasons.

Spring to the seniors has an infinitely more potent meaning. To them it means the imminent approach of their graduation. Almost every event brings the unconscious thought that that particular thing is the last of their high school career. The last pep chapel, the last basketball game to see or perhaps to play! Yet, even though there is a certain depressing quality about this last event, they are eager for the future, if such a paradox is possible.

To others spring means a renewal of sports terminated by winter. Golf enthusiasts brave the mud of the spring thaw and play their daily rounds of golf. The track team begins its work-out every evening in the gym.

They begin to look forward to trips to Iowa City, Des Moines, and various other places to compete in the track meets. Some of our braver members revert to their childhood days and emerge on roller skates, much to their own discomfort on the "morning after."

A typical event of spring is the publication of the Argus Annual. Spring finds the staff members scurrying frantically here and there, some selling "ads," almost desperate in their effort to make good. Some are engaged busily writing with the vibrant call of birds in their ears and the feel of spring in their fingers. The editor calls for everyone to get his work ready. Last minute hurry-up jobs are in order. Then the book is finished, and oh! what a relief it is to have that finished for another year.

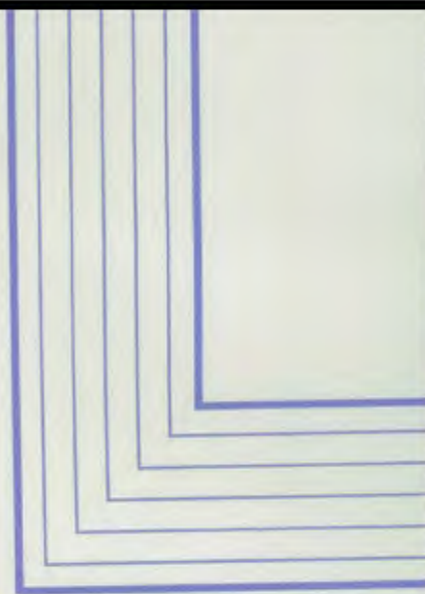

All these things are but minor events in the great transformation taking place in nature. The seeds planted in the fall by man and the west winds are now growing and putting forth leaves. The blossoms of the cherry, pear, peach, and apple trees fill the air with a delicate perfume. The sun plays hide and seek with the clouds, hiding one minute and permitting rain to fall, and then peeping out to surprise the rain and to form a rainbow. Then, suddenly, the sky is completely overcast. Thunder rolls and the lightning flashes. The formerly gentle wind begins to whistle round the eaves, and a turbulent rainstorm takes the center of the stage. Presently the sun is shining again as bright as ever. For spring never bores us by monotony. She is constantly changing and we never tire of her.

All the world is changing and growing, and we with it.

We are presenting the 1936 Argus Annual which has been compiled in different order this year to relieve the uniformity of each publication of the year book. We hope that the new arrangement will meet with your approval.

We, the staff, wish to take this opportunity to express our sincere gratitude to Miss Otley for her able direction; to Miss Grieder for her intelligent criticism of our work; and to all those other persons who aided in our task of assembling the book.

It is our earnest wish that the 1936 Argus will faithfully preserve for you memories of hours spent in work and play within the halls of Ottumwa High School.

Activities

Dramatic Club

The Dramatic Club is the largest club in school, and is, perhaps, the most exacting one. Membership in the organization is attained by a system of try-out plays. There is then a semester of probation. To retain membership, students must maintain a scholastic average of eighty per cent. Almost any student can find some work in the many branches of the club. Those who have ability to work with their hands find much to do building scenery. Those who have the business instinct may fill their time making money for the club. Of course, those who have dramatic talent are kept busy in the plays which the Dramatic Club presents. In addition to the plays presented by the Club it furnishes crews for all other productions of the school.

The money made from the plays presented is spent upon the theater equipment for the stage. For example, last year the club purchased a new cyclorama. It also bought the velvet curtains for the front of the stage. Thus little by little within the few years that this school has been built we have acquired a stage as well-equipped as most professional ones.

The social activities of the club are limited to banquets held twice a year. At these dinners new members are initiated, and new members of Players' Club are announced.

Players' Club

The Players' Club is the "Holy of Holies" to a Dramatic Club member. Membership in this club is attained through a system of points for work in the Dramatic Club. Players' Club has two important functions: it presents the third play of the year, and its members direct try-out plays.

Activities

The most important work of the Debate Club is to help the members of the debate team. As a result of its co-operation Ottumwa enjoys a reputation for hospitality. This year Mr. Hamley sent eleven contestants to the State League and four to the Iowa Nine Association Meet. During the past year the Debate Club has had a larger group of active debaters than it has had for some time. Although the teams have not been so successful as some of the teams before, the club is building up some good material and Coach Hamley has high hopes for next year's season.

Much credit is reflected on the Student Council through the work of the reserves. Besides keeping students out of the halls during class periods, they act as guides and assistants to strangers or guests who need their aid at anytime. Our pink slip system is a smooth student-run organization which gives invaluable aid in maintaining school discipline.

To become a member of Shark Club an applicant must pass severe entrance examinations. Try-outs are held at the beginning of each semester and only the best swimmers are admitted to membership. Meetings are held every two weeks in the pool under the sponsorship of Miss Davidson, swimming instructor. The standards of this club have always been very high. The outstanding project each year is the presentation of a water pageant in which are demonstrated the skill and co-operation of the girls.

Ottumwa's track team pictured below won the 1935 Little Six Track Championship. Out of eight meets they won five—the Little Six Indoor Meet, the Oskaloosa Dual, the Fort Madison Relays, Little Six Outdoor Meet, and the District Track Meet which was held here in Ottumwa. They placed third in both the Oskaloosa Relays and the State Indoor Meet. In the State Outdoor Meet they placed fifth.

Individual stars of the team included Ruble, Black, Jackson, Perdue, and the Mile Relay Team composed of Black, Eckroat, Hansel and Perdue.

Ottumwa's golf squad was composed of Beck, Reifsnnyder, Stoltz, Packwood, Wulfekuhler, Pat Canny, Jim Canny, and Winger.

The golf team attended four dual meets, an Invitational Meet at Keokuk, the Little Six Meet at Muscatine, and the State Meet at Des Moines. The team won a dual meet with Muscatine and lost the other three duals to Centerville, Cedar Rapids, and Keokuk. It won second in the Little Six Meet but failed to place in the other meets. Wulfekuhler and Packwood placed well up in the scoring in the dual meets for Ottumwa.

The Commercial Club holds meetings twice a month and undertakes different projects to raise money to finance its participation in the Iowa State Commercial Contest. The purpose of the club is to give commercial students an opportunity to study commercial problems in the outside world. The officers are: President—Eloise Mudge; Vice-President—Eloise Heston; Secretary—Ruby Kratzer; Treasurer—Helen Parks; Chairman of Program Committee—Louise Rominger; Chairman of Refreshments Committee—Betty Schwartz; Sponsor—Mr. Silcox.

Membership in the Spanish Club is open to anyone studying Spanish who maintains an average of eighty-five percent. It is also open to those alumni who have a knowledge of the language. The club promotes a better understanding of the manners, customs, and life of Spain through talks given by natives or tourists of the twenty-one Spanish-speaking republics of the Americas or Spain. Once every month a social evening is spent in the home of one of the members. The motto of the Latin Club is "Facta non verba." It is organized on the plan of the old Roman government, and at each meeting there is some presentation dealing with the daily life, customs, legends, or traditions of ancient Rome. Upon entrance to the club each member is required to learn the Latin Club song, the various Latin terms of the officers, the passwords, and the club mottoes. Consuls—Constance Glover and Lloyd Starr; Praetor—Margaret Lancaster; Censor—Barbara Smith; Qaestor—Wilbur Johnson; Secretary—Ruth Ruff; Aediles—Ed Wilson, Mary Nally, Charlotte Pratt, and Parley Wellstead; Advisers—Miss Nye and Miss Ver Heul.

The Hi-Y Club has a membership of approximately sixty boys who meet once a week. Its slogan is "Clean Sports, Clean Scholarship, and Clean Living." Its purpose is to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school community high standards of Christian character. The social programs for the year consist of dances and banquets.

The O. H. S. Cafeteria has proved invaluable to those students who cannot go home for lunch or those who wish to study at noon. Wholesome food is served daily at as low a cost as is consistent with the fact that the cafeteria is on a self-supporting basis. It is not necessary to purchase food; students may bring their own lunch and have the privilege of eating it in the dining room. In addition to the large number of students using the cafeteria, many teachers appreciate this service.

An unseen power that makes possible the hurry and the activities of regular school life is the engineering force. Besides keeping the building itself clean, the engineers have charge of all repairs on the grounds, athletic field, and anything connected with the general upkeep of the Ottumwa High School. During the summer months they take care of the paint jobs and repairs for the coming school year. These men and women set a fine example of school spirit in their unceasing efforts to keep our school beautiful.

The members of the team pictured below, chosen from the Poultry Club, represented Wapello County at the State Fair. They sponsored an exhibit of feed and equipment for growing chickens for which they received first prize. Their total winnings were 28 out of 45 first places, 10 out of 15 sweepstakes, and 2 out of 4 grand championships. The boys then represented the state of Iowa at the St. Louis Dairy Contest, where they won first place and were proclaimed national champions.

The aims of the club are: to teach its members how to select the most desirable breed of chickens; to care for them in order to gain the greatest profit; and to promote a similar program throughout their county. Each member must keep a record of some project carried out according to the aims of the club, and turn it in to the club leaders at the end of the year. Although the club is intended chiefly for farm boys and girls, those in town may belong if they have the room and equipment necessary. Officers are: President—Wayne Johnson; Vice-President—Hubert Stevenson; Secretary—Wilbert Mottet; Treasurer—Glenn Marlin.

Oct. 4. Heard Salvi, the Harpist, in a really high class program.

5. Whipped Mt. Pleasant 7—6 but lost in the long run. Black's leg was hurt badly enough to bother him the rest of the season.

12. Saw us get less revenge than was expected for the tie North High held us to last year by tripping them 6—0. Sorry to see J. Rabenold injured.

15. Coffey-Miller Players in "She Stooped to Conquer."

18. Whipped Muscatine by 1 point. Score 7—6.

20. Alarmed to find school unsafe for teachers as well as students while W. T. Barnes is loose.

24. Attended the first performance of "The Black Flamingo,".

25. On to Washington where we conquered with a score of 15—2. D. Spurgeon, who was knocked out as he blocked a kick, to Van's questions of "where he was" and "Who he was playing," answered the highly intelligent answers of "Here" and "Them."

Nov. 1. Jack Rank highly entertaining in a pay assembly.

2. "Sparky" Adam's, Burlington's over-stuffed center, in a center smash that folded "Sparky" like a pocket knife. Score, 20—6.

6. Harry Barnes, brought here jointly by the Hi-Y and Dramatic Club, best chapel of the year so far.

7. Enjoyed the Exchange plays and surprised to find such a large audience.

8. Tripped the light fantastic and highly enjoyed myself at the Hi-Y dance. Read the Argus News to find it has acquired quite a gossip column. Vowed to mend my ways.

11. Braved the cold to see us defeated at the hands of Oskaloosa. Guess Coach spoiled us. If we're not state champs we've had an unsuccessful season.

12. Brought my parents to see the Open House exhibits and where I slave.

15. Junior Jamboree a money maker as well as entertaining.

22. Music department did present "South in Sonora."

24. School Ends—Hooray!

28. Thanksgiving comes once more. This day ends the turkey and fall.

Dec. 2. In a warm-up game with Eldon we triumphed 23—11.

6. Albia's head fell, 27—17.

9. Dropped Eldon again, 32—28.

11. Jack Raymon talked on snakes and demonstrated the latest models.

13. Did acquire apoplexy when we barely defeated Washington 24—23.

20. Last day of school for a spell. Amused at my "Little Brother" at the Hi-Y Big Brother Banquet when he skidded his potatoes into his lap. Then to the gym to see us trounce Burlington 23—16.

Looking Through

The Keyhole

It looks as though Morris Johnson was locked out. We hope this doesn't happen every night, Morris. From the looks of the building we would say some Halloween pranksters had a successful evening. There's Jimmie Spilman, the acrobat (?), who is trying to look, as well as play, the part of an ape. Say, Elaine, that's a cute dog you have, but it's a good thing it happens to be looking the other way because that cat Bob Williams is holding looks pretty husky. Maurine Mikesh (center) seems to have been wading. Betty Trautwein seems to have caught the bicycle craze which swept the town. Well, as I live and try to keep smoke out of my eyes, if that isn't Paul Mahon actually studying. Barbara Jones must have found a nickel, and from the look on Morris Johnson's face he was the one who lost it. Those two girls certainly enjoy eating. They wouldn't even stop to have their picture taken. What's the joke, Connie? Whatever it is, Helen Thompson surely is enjoying it. Lloyd must have overheard Connie's joke but we would like to know why he dangles his hand that way.

Chirpings from the Birdies

It seems that some girls take this leap year business seriously. We hear that Frances Crozier and Betty Kellough took Robert Swenson and Max Burggraaf to the Hi-Y dance. There were also many boys of the younger set who made their debut due to leap year observances.

What will Jack Anderson do for an object of his affections when Mary Helen Taylor goes to Iowa City—Maybe if she promises to come home often enough he'll still remain true—O. H. S. girls hope not!

It looks as though the O. H. S. coeds are again laying their hearts at the feet of John Shea—among them Maurine Mikesh and Betty Trautwein. It seems Maurine and Max Salter are not getting along as was once supposed—which makes Janet Stoltz's heart skip a beat—also Josie Taylor's.

Connie Glover is looking for some NICE young GENTLEMAN to shower her affections upon. Any eligible, unattached boy interested, please call 3431.

It seems Betty Williams' heart beats with great and rapid palpitations for Max Salter, but Betty not knowing that M. Mikesh's copyright on Max is wearing out fosters a superb dislike, almost a phobia, for Maurine. With the big green-eyed monster still gnawing at her soul, she will allow her heart to throb for Dave Cramblit.

While discussing the subject of which night was the best for a date, E. Wulfe-kuhler proclaimed, "Saturday is my PET night."

There are a few of us who will be glad when Corinne Phillips gets to New York—and marries that millionaire. Altho' Ottumwa seems small and stuffy to some folks—we commoners can see its good points.

So little Gordie Bell is going to sail on that insignificant tub the "Normandie" this July. We'll bet our last nickel he wished he could take Helen Thompson along—but mamma won't allow—?

The Baby Parade

Evidently the Bells had a little shindig. Anyway here's the lineup. Left to right: Vernon Anderson (Tsk,tsk), Hughie in person, Paul Mahon, Jimmie Spilman (Jim, how many times have I told you to keep your hands out of your mouth), George Searle (One teacher, on looking at this picture, said it looked exactly like George today), Jim Bastron, chubby Stephen Stoltz, big brother Frankie Stoltz, Gordon Bell, and Gene Foster; and the girls: our learned Charlotte Pratt, Ruth Dayton, Helen Thompson, and Madeleine Rupp. Ugh! Heap Chief Sitting Bull (standing up) —Ivor Kitterman. Where's your bow and arrow, Chief? Warren Morrow looks right cute with a beret, doesn't he? Schoolday sweethearts! Harry Pinneo, Elaine Kent, Madeline Long, and Jack Anderson. We would certainly like to know whom Lorayne Frickey is looking at so wistfully. Bill Duree was a cute little feller. Watch out, Bill, or you'll bite your tongue. More schoolday chums: Mary Louise Ryan, Janet Stoltz, Barbara Bowne, Alice May Phillips, and Marguerite Morrow (Those were the days when Marguerite was as big as the rest of them. Frances Crozier gazes coyly at you from her kiddie car. Ivor Kitterman seems to have grown some since the last time we saw him. Dave Cramblit is having a good time in the snow. There are two pictures of Dorothy May Ketcham. There's Buzz Meany on a kiddie car.

The Winter

Caution: Before reading these pages, be sure to put on your heavy overcoat and earmuffs (if you don't have a pair see Paul Mahon). The winter of 1936 was certainly something to tell your grandchildren about. From the way L. Z. and Frances Crozier are bundled up we would judge it was cold, to say the least. Elizabeth Graham was caught in a very undignified position, and we'll bet she didn't sit down of her own free will. Evidently the law of gravity works on both male and female, for in the next picture we see (?) arising from what we would say was a cold seat. Even Dillon Spurgeon is not immune to the call of the ice. It looks as though he is going to crawl the rest of the way to make certain his feet will stay on the ground. Lloyd Starr, John Lancey, and Bob Kaufmann, our three handsome (?) representatives to the Iowa Nine Declamatory contest—Hurry, girls, or you'll be late, and even if it is cold that's not a good enough excuse. I'll bet that box Miss Schick is carrying is not full of papers to correct (or maybe it is). Ivor Kitterman, circulation manager of our little book, is seen carrying a package containing photographs to be engraved for the said book. Of all people, Paul Mahon walking with Miss Grieder and Miss Rodden. You wouldn't by any chance be wanting a grade, would you, Paul? The charter membership of the "Knit and Chat Club:" "Davy," Taylor, and "Jonesy," hiding behind the arm!

o f 1 9 3 6

Snow, snow, everywhere and quite a bit of shovel. And it was so cold that even the famed April showers came disguised as snow. Florine Kjellstrand has assumed a very undignified position for a senior (notice the feet. Who says women don't have big feet)? Norman Givens must be having a snow fight (or maybe he just loves to roll in the snow)—Betty Stevenson took a tumble. Ho-hum. Take a glance at that innocent look on Jean Kuhnes' face (If you ask me, it's too innocent). Dorothy Baer, Corinne Phillips, and Betty Ann Schafer seem quite happy about something. (Could it be because school is finished for the day?) Say, what's that thing perched on Marguerite Morrow's head? And that thing Betty Trautwein has in her mouth is no hamburger either. It must be funny, for Janet is enjoying it—Jason, you're not afraid of breaking the camera, are you? Our sympathies are with Corinne Phillips. All she has to run around in is a 1936 Buick coupe. Well, well, Bob Roarty seems to have taken up sliding (without his sled). We're beginning to become suspicious of that spot of ice—There's a scene that really warms our heart. Harry Miller, George Searle, Hubert McGarity, and Jack Brown wading through a blizzard to attend our fair institution.

(More winter next year).

Features

O. H. S. Diary

27. Santa Claus arrived a little late when he presented us with a 34—22 victory over Keokuk. Packard on scoring spree.

Jan. 3. Muscatine came to be defeated 20—21.

5. School opened again.

6. Fairfield fell by the wayside 24—23.

10. Ft. Madison also fell 23—16. Team looked good.

17. Prefer separate school dances to all-school party.

21. Mt. Pleasant couldn't withstand our invasion, tumbling 22—18.

24. L. Farrington and M. Black playing their last game for Ottumwa were good to the last drop. Helped trim Washington 25—19. Semester ended.

27. Missed Black and Farrington more than we expected. Albia toppled us 22—24. Baird, Orman, and Williams replaced the vacancies.

29. Ah! the attempts to look bored and nonchalant that adorned the faces of some, while they received the rewards due them in honor chapel.

Feb. 5. Dramatic Club Banquet held at Y. W. C. A. Miss Stover okay.

14. The Bulldogs came back. Victory at Muscatine's expense 27—20. School dismissed because of coal shortage. Colder than dry ice.

18. Fairfield had one on us 33—39.

21. Ft. Madison took toll 24—27.

24. Plantation singers best pay chapel yet this year.

28. Mt. Pleasant felt our wrath 24—33. Packard netted 28 points.

Mar. 4. Andy Kerr and his jokes interesting.

5. "Double Door," Miss Stover's first play. Enthusiastically received.

13. Stopped New Sharon 24—14. Then Eddyville, 40—21, in the sectional.

14. "Oskey" next, 19—17. On to the districts.

19. Selfishly took the district tournament from Indianola, 27—20.

21. Albia bowed 27—19. On to Des Moines.

23. Shark Club gave "Rainbow Fantasy."

26. Whipped all the boys from Maloy (11) in the first round at Des Moines, 21—10.

27. Diagonal wasn't good enough. Trimmed them 27—19. Shea held Bonebrake to 3 points and matched them himself. All of which made B. Stevenson feel good.

28. Ames pasted our ears back, 23—45. Then Webster City whipped us in the Consolation game 31—41. But we can't kick about 4th place in the state. Much better than was expected at mid-year.

28. Had the boys been on stilts they might have had a chance against Ames. They pasted our ears back, 23—45. Then Webster City whipped us in the Consolation game 31—41. But we can't kick about 4th place in the state. Much better than was expected at Mid-year.

30. Impressed by the ease??? with which radium is produced, Dr. Luther Gable says one by-product of radium makes a bullet that will penetrate any armor plate and another makes an armor no bullet can pierce.

May 22. Junior-Senior Prom.

June 5. Senior Party at the Country Club.

Memories of '36

Betty Stevenson doesn't seem to exactly appreciate having Bill Duree carry her around. About all the help we can offer is to say, "Down with Stevenson." No, Josie's not going to sleep in the school, she is merely bringing the quilt as a prop for the play "Pink and Patches." Well, Bill, isn't that a trifle out of place? Miriam Tinsley co-operates very nicely, too, doesn't she? Why the frown, Jesse Earl? Maybe Frances asked him for a date but he had to study (notice the looks). And there's Lloyd Starr making faces at us from behind cover (Jesse Earl). There's a fine facial study of Gene Wulfekuhler (you study it a while, we're tired). Note the big dimple in his chin. The three Bettys: Betty Schwartz, Betty Stevenson, and Bettijane Swaim. Jim Meier is having quite a time getting that little ball across the line (he ought to carry it).

Evidently Herbie Grooms doesn't believe in signs. Bill Lowry must be growing old. If you look closely you can see he is wearing two pairs of glasses to aid his eyes. We'll have to turn the book upside down to see that person in overalls. Why, of course, it's Abbie Ruble. Would you look at that innocent expression that graces the map of Wilbur Mottet. The "Three Musketeers." None other than Edna B. Huston, Ola Huston, and Laura Nanes. Leland Metz thinks he would make a good third for the Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers dance team. A fitting title for this picture (in Leland's opinion) would be, "Lee-Fred, and Ginger."

This statement was sworn to and hand affixed this day, April 26, 1936, in the presence of Me, Alexander Throttlebottom, Notary Public, Ph.D., M. D., SS. C., T. Y. A., A. A. A., N. R. A., and all points west.

The Candid Camera

What are you frowning at, Mary? Certainly not because you don't want your picture taken. Hello, Janet. And there's Marguerite Morrow, too. Surely you're not afraid of the camera, too. Bill Hanrahan seems to be waiting for someone. Careful, Bill, don't lean on the glass too hard. Jack Cresap is striding right along. Better watch out for your tongue, Jack. There's Maynard Black waiting for a chance to ring that victory bell. More power to your elbow, Mayn.

Ah, at last we found the guilty person. We caught you redhanded that time Madeline. Next time try red paint. Dominic Della Vedova, our class president, practices up a bit on heavy weight throwing. Don't let the size of the pill fool you; it weighs 12 pounds. Annie seems to be walking the straight and narrow. Connie Glover has had a hard day at school, at least from the look on her face. We wonder whom Margaret Lancaster is looking at so interestedly. Well, well. Bill Reeves has certainly got class. It's only a Cadillac V-16. How about a ride, Bill? Say, isn't that Mary Helen Taylor climbing a fence? Look at those fair damsels taking a sun bath. Recognize them—they are Martha Jane Kemble, Maurine Mikesh, Ann Rutledge, and Margaret McElroy.

Chirpings from the Birdies

It seems it takes a college education to appreciate B. A. Schafer. Jack Vaughan returns from Ames to give Betty a run.

E. Kent has outgrown most of us and will accept a date with the younger set only when she has nothing else to do. Let it be known she is only 14. Born June 15, 1921.

We wonder if the Oldsmobile isn't a big attraction to W. T. Barnes.

M. Fisher isn't attending all the dances now. It seems her "Uncle Floyd" finally got enough nerve to get a girl.

We wondered why some people call Betty Stevenson "Technician". It seems that one night she had a date with Bill Woodrow and—well, you ask her for the rest.

It seems that some practical jokers, (the ones who decorated our school, see page 95) went to Osklaosa with the same thought in mind. However, before they could take their leave, the principal of the high school and a police officer stopped them and suggested that they clean up some paint which they had accidentally "spilled."

Elaine Dyke will have to find herself a new boy friend. It seems she kept Jack Barber out past 11:00 the other night, which in his mother's eyes is much, much too late—so now, he can't get out again this semester.

Addis Ababa has fallen—and so has Dominic Della Vedova. Norma Dobratz has finally turned the trick. As this goes to press he hasn't yet got enough nerve to speak to her, but inasmuch as this is leap year perhaps she will speak to him if she sees this.

Myra Porter would rather sit in a car than dance, at least such was the case the evening of one DeMolay Dance, but her escort, I. Kitterman, wouldn't stay in a parked car so he went and danced while she sat.

Plays and Pageants

If you saw "Double Doors" you'll recognize this picture as the last scene of the play. Ann Rutledge, playing the part of Victoria Van Bret, goes crazy in this scene and from the look on her face she hasn't far to go. During the play some very humorous incidents happened. For instance, W. T. Barnes, as Neff, was supposed to rush off stage and get some wine to assist in bringing Anne, Josephine Taylor, to consciousness. Barnes, rushing offstage, found no property people to get it for him, so he rushed back on the stage with his hand cupped, as though carrying a small glass, and handed the empty space to Dr. Sully, Bill Woodrow, who administered the same to Anne. Again, the vault door, a supposedly heavy-bolted steel door, swung open at the slightest touch in the most dramatic scene in the play. However, Woodrow calmly closed the door and the play proceeded.

In the lower right hand corner the girl diving through the hoop is Gwen Johns. This was but one of the many features of the program offered in the "Rainbow Fantasy," the yearly Shark Club pageant, which was enthusiastically received by all who saw it, (including those on the front row whose spirits were somewhat dampened when someone conceived the bright idea of doing "cannon balls" during the diving exhibition). There was also much merriment among the spectators during the water polo game. Whenever anyone on the opposing side succeeded in getting the ball, Madeleine Rupp would jump on that person and hold her under until she let go of the ball.

GOOD LUCK and THANK YOU

To members of the Class of 1936 as you conclude four memorable years and confidently face the future—congratulations and good luck!

And to members of class after class, and generation after generation, for so confidently welcoming Morrell Pride products into your homes as a part of the scheme of things that contribute to the joy of living—our deepest thanks.

This repeated "vote of confidence" in the quality and delicious flavor for which our label stands is something we promise never to take lightly.

Entirely up to you---

Young men and women of Ottumwa and nearby areas who receive their diplomas from the high school this year are stepping across into a new period of their lives.

Heretofore all has been ordered and directed for them. Now it belongs to them. What they do will reflect the sturdiness of character, the learning, the energy, the resourcefulness they have gleaned from their training.

They can waste or they can build. Some will add to their preparation; others will go immediately into the modern, adult, workaday world.

Be steadfast, kind, serve well.

For the ninth consecutive year, a Molloy Made cover helps to make the Argus a permanent, durable, worthwhile, and distinctive book. A source of pride to the school, a source of satisfaction to the staff, and a source of value to the subscribers of the book.

Every good annual deserves a good cover—specify a Molloy Made cover and insure that the cover be good.
