

SUSAN NEHRING WINS FIRST IN SPEECH CONTEST

Susan Nehring, senior student from Hubbard, was selected as first place winner at the District Soil Conservation speech contest held Tuesday evening, according to Mrs. Kenneth Meier, secretary of the Ladies Auxiliary.

Gordon Reisinger, Eldora, received second place award in the contest.

Miss Nehring's speech was entitled "How soil conservation affects my future." Her speech centered on a quotation of Theodore Roosevelt, "When the soil is gone, man is gone."

Miss Nehring will advance to the regional contest to be held in July. The regional winner will advance to the state contest to be held during the annual state convention of district commissioners at Cedar Rapids this September.

She is an active 4-H member and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Art Nehring of Hubbard.
