

My dear Miss Wilson -

About two years ago I began collecting bookplates, and more recently joined the Society. Mr. Bae very kindly sent me last years Bulletin, and already I am enjoying the corresponding with others interested in general exchanges. When I joined I thought perhaps I'd been too hasty - and that I should have waited until I had something more worthy of offering — but in the glad I didn't. It may be a lifetime before I own a plate in the same class as a French or Japanese — and what a lot of pleasure I'd have missed!

The enclosed plates are nice - sets which I did - all for members of the family. I've done one process plate for a doctor - but have no proofs. Some time I shall borrow the plate

Miss Helen Wilson,

909 E. Washington St.,
Washington, D.C.

and have a few made for exchanging.

Specializing in State University library plates must be quite interesting — Do you have some from each of the States — and do you also include normal or teachers training schools? Here in Pennsylvania a graduate of the latter has by far the best opportunity for finding a teaching position after graduating — better than from the U — and far better than from a private college. I should like so much hearing about your collecting — and specialties!

With very best wishes.

Cordially,

Lois Stone,

(Mrs. Tom Seely J.)

Miss Helen Moore,

909 E. Washington St.,
Washington, D.C.

